SNYDER MURDER CASE GONE TO THE JURY

Snyder's Counsel Asks Her Acquittal Gray's Seeks Manslaughter Verdict for His Client.

DOZENS COLLAPSE IN CROWDED COURT

Attorney Declares Woman Planned to Poison Accompanying After Husband Was Shot.

Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The case of Ruth Brown Snyder, Henry Gray charged with the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, given to the jury at 4:59 p. m. (St. Louis time).

The jury retired at 5:19 o'clock (St. Louis time), twenty minutes after Justice Scudder formally gave the case, the 20 minutes having been consumed by the attorneys for additional charges.

The verdicts are possible: First degree murder, with a minimum penalty of 30 years; second degree murder, with a minimum penalty of 15 years; manslaughter, with a minimum penalty of 10 years; acquittal.

The case went to the jury after the judge had delivered a long lasting more than one hour of argument which women by dozens overcame by the heat.

The room normally holds about 100 persons and it is estimated that more than 2000 crowded in today.

The court room was stifling when the jury returned for the afternoon session and the crowd began to stir at the effects of the heat while the first attorney Newcombe delivered his summation.

The judge's charge began, the women were locked and women brought through the crowd in an effort to get out. Guards at the door permitted the first half to leave when they pleaded they would faint if they could not get out.

In By Locked Doors. After that the rush for the exits was so great that the doors were locked and the weeping women were told to "go ahead and wait."

Several of them did, slipping to their knees along the walls or toppling over into already filled seats. Others passed quickly into unconsciousness in their own seats, heads hanging over the back of their chairs.

One woman rose suddenly in the front of the room and pitched to the floor. Friends picked her up and fanned her with newspapers as the charge went on.

When at length the doors were opened there was a stampede of men and women formed the rush for air.

One white-haired man fainted, his head and friends on either side held him in place as they still pressed forward to hear Justice Scudder's charge.

Mrs. Snyder and Gray in testimony accused each other of killing. Snyder, March 20, with a cash watch, chloroform and pistol.

The day was occupied by attorneys' summations. William Millard Gray asked that a manslaughter verdict be returned.

He declared Gray had not shot Snyder with the cash watch and that Mrs. Snyder planned to poison Gray as soon as her husband died.

Anna Wallace, attorney for Mrs. Snyder, demanded an acquittal. District Attorney Newcombe, who asserted Mrs. Snyder's story, the witness stand was "a tissue of lies."

Justice Scudder began his charge when Mrs. Snyder's counsel, his mother gave him, his high affiliations. Millard pleaded the bright future which lay out before Gray as he believed a success in business and then, suddenly, he said, "in a sinister, fascinating, un-

STORE COLLAPSES AS SHOPPERS FLEE

One Hundred Chicago Shoppers and Employees Thought to Have Escaped Injury.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Nearly 100 customers and employees were thought to have escaped uninjured today when the Louis Department Store, a four-story structure on the West Side, collapsed in a mass of ruins.

A slight rumbling was the only warning before the structure crashed.

One witness saw three girls escape and run screaming down the street. Thousands quickly massed near the ruins, many of them frantic with fear for the safety of relatives.

All four walls seemed to have toppled inward toward the center, folding up much like a box. It was only a few seconds after the three girls fled that the front wall crashed.

An odor of gas soon permeated the neighborhood but firemen who had expected a possible blaze, found no fire danger.

Store managers said a crack in a wall had given a warning. The store was a 1631-35 West Chicago avenue.

Louis Goldblatt, proprietor, declared that 10 minutes before the building crumbled with a rumbling crash a cracked wall had given warning and he had sounded the alarm, getting most if not all the people to the street in safety.

Mrs. Mae McGinnis, a clerk, hurled from a fourth story and badly injured, was taken to a hospital.

The entire building was a heap of ruins. Many persons were at first thought to have been trapped and killed or injured, but after an hour of digging through all the ruins, neither dead nor injured were found and the authorities accepted Goldblatt's statement that virtually all had escaped.

First Watermelons Sell for $2.10. The first watermelons of the season were received in St. Louis from Florida today, three weeks earlier than a year ago. They were extra large for this time of the season, averaging 30 pounds, and sold wholesale at 7 cents a pound delivered, making $2.10 per melon.

WHAT MIDNIGHT GALE DID IN ST. LOUIS

VIEWS of the damage done by the wind which swept across the city last night are shown on the picture page in the Daily Magazine Section with this issue of the Post-Dispatch.

Wind with a velocity of 72 miles an hour, lightning and torrential rain, from 1:40 until 2:10 a. m. today, caused widespread damage in and near St. Louis.

A man was killed and a woman seriously injured in the collapse of a centrally located dwelling, caused by lightning and wind. Trees were felled in parks and across main thoroughfares, roofs were blown off, falling smokestacks wrecked other roofs, windows were shattered, ends and sides of buildings were blown out, billboards and poles were felled, and wires made streets impassable.

The wind was described by the Weather Bureau as being a straight blow from the southwest, and not a tornado, or "twister." From 1:55 to 2:10, the velocity was above 40 miles an hour, and from 1:58 to 2:03 the maximum of 72 miles was maintained. The rain, beginning at 1:50, registered .34 of an inch for the storm period, most of the fall being between 1:55 and 2:05.

Cause of the One Fatality. The one fatality occurred in the three-story brick building at 2412 Lawrence boulevard. Lightning struck the roof, causing a part of the third floor to cave in upon the second floor bedroom of Charles Williams, a Negro cook. Firemen chopped their way into the room, and found Williams dead in bed and his wife, Annie Williams, unconscious beside him.

The most remarkable demonstration of the wind's power was given in the unroofing of the Natural Bridge car barn, North Market street and Spring avenue. The long arched roof, blown off in one piece, was carried north to St. Ferdinand avenue and fell across that street, blocking it, while a part of the heavy framework crashed down upon a group of nine steel street cars, shattering them.

Lightning struck the upper front of the three-story Columbia School, on Garrison avenue near St. Louis avenue, and demolished the cornice, causing damage estimated at $100. Residents of the neighborhood saw a shower of bricks and sandstone as the building was struck, and a dairy horse, being driven in the street, near, was felled by the concussion.

Mansard roofs and slate cornices of the older style of construction, fared badly all over the city.

The heavy gilded cross of St. Alphonsus' (Rock) Church, Grand boulevard and Finney avenue, was torn from its position at the top of the lofty steeple, and was hanging down trees today.

Nearly 200 trees in the city parks were uprooted or broken off, including about 50 in O'Fallon Park, 40 in Forest Park, 50 in Tower Grove Park, 40 in Fairground Park, 40 in Lafayette Park, 30 in St. Louis park and 15 in Hyde Park. Greenhouses in Forest Park and in Shaw's Garden suffered some handsome maples and poplars were blown down.

Power Plant Damaged. On the eastern edge of Granite City, a part of the new power plant of the $1,000,000 establishment of the St. Louis Coke & Iron Corporation was blown in, causing heavy damage to machinery.

The end of the new power plant, a new bungalow at 4939 West avenue was blown out, and the occupants of the house were driven out. The city directory shows Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joy as the occupants.

Manchester avenue, west of Kingshighway, was blocked by passage of street cars and vehicles, by fallen trees, poles and wires. A man and wife on the sidewalk, who found themselves imprisoned between a wall and a maze of wires, were taken out by rescuers after they had shouted for help for several minutes.

On Lindell boulevard, both east and west of the intersection of the boulevard and West Pine boulevard, damage to trees was heavy. Many trees were uprooted. In front of 4564 West Pine, a large tree lay across the street as to block passage for all but a single line of automobiles. North Broadway was a center of damage to poles and smokestacks. At Second and Perry streets, a 25-foot stack of the Union Cooperative Co. was felled, wrecking a section of the company's plant.

At Ferry and Oak streets, east of the cooperative plant, a shed of the Pustell Oil Corporation was blown over another shed, then across the street and into a small frame house, which it telescoped.

At Madison street and the river a grain elevator was uprooted. Herbert street, from Fifteenth to Nineteenth streets, was rendered impassable by fallen trees, poles and wires. Traffic at Ninth and An-

HICKS INQUIRY NOW CENTERS ON FINANCIAL DEALS

Investigators Hope That Hitherto Unidentified Associates Will Thus Be Brought Into the Light.

$207,000 IN DEBTS OFFER ONE MYSTERY

Police Trying to Learn What Became of Cash Represented by That Amount of Obligations.

The inquiry into the murder of Clifford Hicks, now entering upon its second week, is being concentrated on his questionable financial deals in the hope that they will disclose hitherto unidentified associates of Hicks and provide new clues.

One of the questions police want answered is "What became of the $207,000 for which Hicks was indebted?" Another element is the fact that Hicks' St. Louis Finance Corporation, which had total assets of $961,238.25 in one month, March, and withdrew $960,114.33, leaving a balance of $1123.42. These figures are partly accounted for by Hicks' practice of depositing and withdrawing the same money every day, to make his business appear more prosperous than it was and thus "kite" his credit.

The lawyer's business friends and associates have told police that in the last week before his murder they caught him in several tricks and had summoned him to a conference for an accounting. S. L. Fox, attorney; former Governor Major and others now say they had begun to suspect Hicks. Details of the deals in which Hicks participated will be surveyed thoroughly by the Circuit Attorney's office.

Self-Murder Still Theory. City detectives are still entertaining the theory that Hicks had himself murdered. This idea has found much favor at headquarters as the picture of Hicks' financial contrivances daily grows more dismal. With the reopening of the inquiry this week, police plan to go into the possibility of that theory.

In talking with Hicks' mother, Mrs. Emma Hicks, who lives at 2529 Minnesota avenue, detectives learned that her father died in an Illinois town the week of her son's murder. Clifford had called to console with her on his grandfather's death and she quotes him as saying: "Well, grandfather died a nice death. And he'd never sold himself."

Police theorists think this sort of talk indicated that Hicks was speculating about his own death and indicating he had "sold himself" in dubious business enterprises.

Revenge Idea Considered. Another theory being considered is that Hicks, who is known to have participated in the sale of stolen bonds, was killed by crooks who had employed him as their agent and who thought he had held out on them.

In tracing Hicks' business involvements, police are taking into account the number of speculative enterprises in which Hicks interested himself. It is known to have been engaged in the promotion of the Missouri Laboratories, a hog remedy manufactory; the Ozark Realty Co., the Ozark Bank of Philadelphia, J. R. Lovejoy and E. W. Rice, vice president and honorary chairman, respectively, of the General Electric Co.

The playground, 40 miles from Bar Harbor, 50 miles from Bangor and 90 miles from the Canadian border, lies in a natural amphitheater surrounded by eight mountains. It includes Great Truck Lake and 11 others.

Most of the members also belong to the Mountain Lake Club of Florida. They include August Hecksher of New York, Edward W. Beck of Philadelphia, J. R. Lovejoy and E. W. Rice, vice president and honorary chairman, respectively, of the General Electric Co.

SCOTT FIELD AIRSHIP WRECKED AT LEAVENWORTH

Nonrigid Dirigible Breaks From Mooring and Crashes — Envelop to Be Salvaged.

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., May 9.—The TC-10 No. 252, army non-rigid dirigible, which returned to Fort Leavenworth yesterday after encountering a windstorm on its trip from Fort Sill, Ok., to San Antonio, was wrecked today when it broke from its mooring here.

Three shifts of 30 men each had been detailed to hold the ship. When they lost control the ripcord was pulled and the dirigible sailed about 300 yards before it crashed.

The dirigible represented the largest type of non-rigid airship. Its capacity was 210,000 cubic feet. It accommodated 19 persons.

Maj. H. H. Strouse, Capt. W. H. Kemper and Lieut. K. S. Avolton were in charge of the ship. The dirigible flew last week from Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., to Fort Riley.

When the dirigible reached Fort Sill, last Saturday night, it was unable to moor because of high winds, and returned to Fort Leavenworth yesterday morning.

The car of the ship was not damaged and air corps officers said the silk envelope probably would be salvaged. It is to be packed and shipped back to Scott Field. All army nonrigid dirigibles are known as TC-10. The one wrecked today formerly was known as TC-7.

ALARM OVER SAINT ROMAN INCREASES AS HOURS PASS. One Report Says Captain and Aid in Trans-Atlantic Flight Are on Desert.

By the Associated Press. RIO DE JANEIRO, May 8.—Alarm increases over the fate of Captain Saint Roman and his comrade, Commander Mouneyres, who early Thursday morning hopped off from St. Louis, Senegal, on the 1875-mile air flight to Pernambuco, and who have not been heard from.

All Brazil radio stations have been seeking to get into communication with the aviators, and ships have searched the coast and outlying points in vain.

There are several places where the aviators might have landed, either one of the barren islands or some point along the coast where there are few inhabitants.

By the Associated Press. FEINAMBURO, Brazil, May 9.—Runners have come from the Cape Verde Islands that the French flyers, Saint Roman and Mouneyres, alighted on a desert island in that archipelago.

HEAVY SNOW AND COLD WAVE HIT ROCKY MOUNTAIN STATES. Drifts Block Roads in Wyoming. 2-Inch Fall in Salt Lake City Turns to Sleet, Then Rain.

By the Associated Press. DENVER, Colo., May 9.—The northern Rocky Mountain states today lay under one of the heaviest snow blankets on record for May, following sharp drops in temperature that transformed rain into blizzards at some points.

The storm extended to the interior mountain area, leaving two inches of snow at Salt Lake City. Aside from damage to orchards, property loss was slight.

Air mail, train and automobile traffic was delayed in Wyoming by a snowfall of from 2 to 10 inches. Sheepmen in the Little Laramie Valley, where lambing is in progress, feared heavy losses.

AIRPORT TOLD TO EXPECT LANDING

Army Signal Corps Notified to Be on Lookout, Turns on Searchlights as Beacons.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—After receiving and announcing official reports that the Nungesser-Coll trans-Atlantic plane had been sighted along the New England coast, the Navy Department late today was advised by the Boston navy yard that information regarding the plane had not been confirmed, and that "the machine reported sighted might have been a Coast Guard plane proceeding from Maine to Gloucester, Mass."

By the Associated Press. ROCKFORD, Mass., May 9.—A Coast Guard plane which had flown this afternoon from Rockland, Me., with Gloucester as its objective, was forced down here at 4:30 o'clock, daylight saving time, because of the fog. Coast Guard officers thought it was this plane that had been reported "passing over Portland, Me., the Isles of Shoals and other points by observers watching for Capt. Nungesser and Coll, French trans-Atlantic flyers."

Hopped Off From Paris at 5:18 A. M. Sunday. NEW YORK, May 9.—Captains Charles Nungesser and Francis Coll hopped off from Paris, France, at 5:18 a. m. Sunday, Paris time, for their nonstop flight across the Atlantic Ocean to New York.

Their 450-horse power plane, "The White Bird," was due in New York at 3 o'clock this afternoon (1 p. m. St. Louis time) if she had held to her scheduled course.

(There is 5 hours' difference between Paris time and Eastern standard time, but New York is on daylight saving schedule, and this makes a difference of six hours clock time—that is, when it is noon, New York time, it is 6 p. m. in Paris. St. Louis, with no daylight saving is two hours behind New York time—six behind Paris time.)

Gasoline for 40 Hours. "The White Bird" had a supply of gasoline that would have kept the plane under full headway of 100 miles an hour for 40 hours, enough to have brought her easily into her haven unless buffeted by contrary winds. With the wind on her tail the gas supply would last some hours longer.

Capt. Nungesser and Francis Coll took off from Le Bourget at 5:18 A. M. Sunday, Paris time. (That was 10:18 p. m. Saturday, St. Louis time.) The distance is about 3700 miles.

Cape Race, New Foundland, reported this morning that the weather was fine and clear, with the wind northwest. It was cloudy at St. Johns, New Foundland, but the fog had lifted.

Apparently weather conditions off New Foundland were improving, for earlier in the day Cape Race had reported a snowstorm off shore with low visibility.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 9.—Fifty-one persons are known to have been killed by tornadoes in Missouri, Kansas and Texas late Saturday night and early this morning. Many homes were destroyed and more than 100 persons were injured.

Kansas was hard hit when a twister started near the Oklahoma border in the central section of the state late Saturday night and swept four counties, leaving ten known dead. Thirty-two were killed in Texas.

Two women and two children were killed in a tornado near Eldon, in South-Central Missouri last night. Meager reports indicated the storm also struck Olean, seven miles north of Eldon, causing heavy property damage. Two were killed near Mexico, Mo. Two were killed at New Bloomfield, Mo., and one near Carrington.

The dead near Eldon, Mo. were identified as Mrs. Charles Miller and baby, Wesley Bailey and son of Marvin Sidenott.

20-Mile Strip Swept
A strip about twenty miles long and 150 yards wide, running from near Fulton, Mo., north to near Benton City, Audrain county, was devastated. Many farm buildings were destroyed and much livestock killed. Mrs. Robert Biggs living near Benton and Jewell, the 2-year-old son of Harold Culver, were killed. Robert Biggs, husband of the dead woman and a son were injured. Roads to the stricken district were impassable and communication was cut off. Four of the injured were taken to a hospital at Mexico and several to Fulton.

At New Bloomfield, Mo., Rufus Phillips was killed and his daughter, Della was seriously injured. Miss Frances Clay, who was visiting at the Phillips home, was killed. John W. Sampson, former Assessor of Callaway County, was killed near Carrington.

Twenty persons were injured in a tornado which tore a path a quarter of a mile wide near Ava, Douglas county, demolishing at least nine farm homes and other buildings. First news was taken to Springfield, Mo., by D. W. Briggs, five members of whose family were injured when their home was destroyed. The Hall canning factory at Ava was struck by lightning and destroyed.

Four Counties In Storm
The Kansas tornado raced through Barber, Kingman, Reno and McPherson counties late Saturday night. More than 800 buildings were reported demolished in this area.

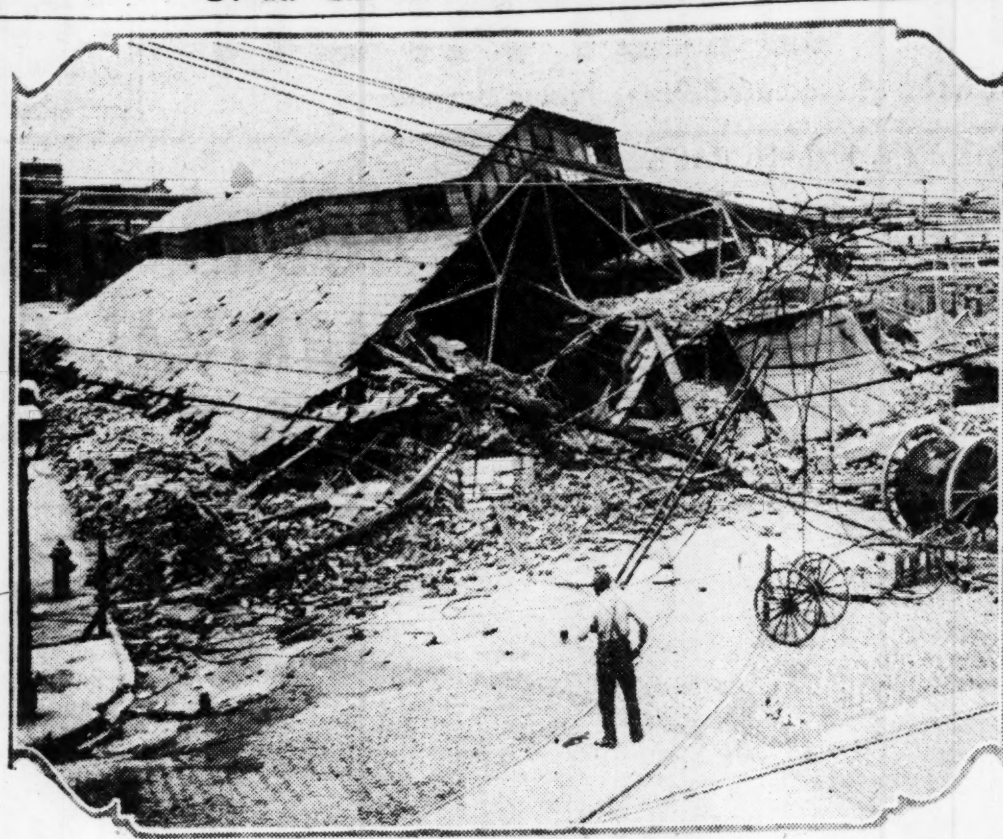

The Kansas twister apparently jumped long distances and after sweeping a section along the Oklahoma-Kansas border, it rushed northeast, cutting a path four blocks wide through the Eastern part of Hutchinson. Although comparatively little damage resulted to the central section of the city, the loss in the factory district was estimated at nearly $1,000,000. Forty persons were taken to hospitals. Hundreds were made homeless in Hutchinson, a city of 25,000. About 100 homes were damaged there and 200 in nearby sections of Kansas. National Guardsmen were mobilized and supervised relief and salvage work. The Red Cross reported the situation well in hand, and city officials said no outside aid would be needed.

While property damage was heaviest in Hutchinson, smaller Kansas towns reported deaths. Medicine Lodge, where the twister originated, reported three dead in that section. Inman and Medora, about 100 miles north of Medicine Lodge, where the tornado apparently spent its fury, each reported two dead. James C. Burke, Santa Fe engineer, was killed when his engine crashed through a bridge near Kingman.

32 Killed in Texas.
Thirty-two persons were killed in tornadoes in Texas early today. Ten perished when a storm hit Garland, Tex., 15 miles from Dallas; 16 were killed at Nevada, Tex., and four at Wolfe City, and two near Kellogg, Tex. More than 50 were injured in the storms in that State.

U. R. Car Barn Wrecked by Storm

Looking east on St. Ferdinand avenue from Prairie avenue, where a United Railways car barn collapsed during the wind storm early today. A block of St. Ferdinand avenue was buried under the debris and fragments were scattered on the lawns of the row of houses across the street. Nine street cars were buried in the collapse.

Heavy Damage, One Dead In St. Louis Windstorm

Golconda streets was blocked by two uprooted sycamores. On Ferry, Fenwick and Adelphi streets, Kossuth, Adelaide and Carrie avenues, and at Nineteenth street and Newhouse avenue, roofs were damaged, trees felled and billboards leveled.

Plate Glass Windows Broken.
Damage to plate glass windows was heavy in the downtown district, and in the Grand-Olive neighborhood. Six windows of the Golden Clothing Co., Sixth and Olive streets, were broken, with a loss of $13,000; 30 suits of clothes were drenched, and several of the suits disappeared. Large windows were shattered in the new Bell Telephone Building, the Majestic Hotel, May-Stern store, Twelfth boulevard and Olive street; the garage at Twelfth and Locust, Gluck's Restaurant, 817 Washington avenue; the Buettner Furniture Co., 901 Washington, and the Lysa store, 300 North Sixth street. At Grand and Washington streets were blown into the street from a broken window and a taxicab driver, who collected some of the shoes, was arrested.

Sixth-floor windows of the Pierce Building, facing west, on Fourth street, near Pine, were blown in, and the sidewalk below was roped off to prevent injury to pedestrians through falling of the jagged remnants of glass. Large signboards at Lindell boulevard and Sarah street were blown down. At 16-18 North Eleventh street, a lodging house, a front wall was blown out, and several persons left hurriedly.

Little damage was reported from South St. Louis. The Lafayette Park district, which was the center of the destructive tornado of May 27, 1896, reported only the loss of trees in the park. In the southwest part of the city, at Bates street and Gravois avenue, store buildings were damaged. On the hill, south of the Frisco tracks and west of Kingshighway, policemen reported that some of the foreign-born residents knelt in the street praying after fleeing from their homes into the dreaching rain. A section of the roof of the City Infirmary, on Arsenal street, was blown off.

Breaks in Electric Service.
Electric power lines were broken in various parts of the city, particularly at places where falling trees and limbs struck the wires. Elevators were out of service in a number of apartment houses, because of interruptions to the power supply. These breaks were local, and did not cause any general stoppage of current.

Street car service suffered local breaks at numerous points, officials of the United Railways Co. estimating that there were 100 interruptions of more or less consequence. These interfered with owl car service, but cars were running on most lines after daylight. An exception was the Manchester line, cars of which were re-routed over the Market line. Shuttle cars were run on the west end of the Manchester line to Maplewood.

Telephone circuits were interrupted in a few cases, and messages for some nearby points were sent by roundabout routes. The telephone companies were warned of the coming storm by advices from Denver yesterday, but no precautions were possible.

The Fire Department reported 17 calls during the storm, mostly for minor alarms. Alarm wires in some sections were put out of use but these were restored today. Those who watched the latter part of the storm from bedroom windows noted that soon after 2:15, when the rain stopped, the sky cleared and the stars appeared. This condition did not last long.

The Weather Bureau's official version of the storm is that a low pressure area, such as breeds violent storms, centered yesterday in Eastern Colorado and Western Kansas, and this morning had moved its center to North Central Nebraska.

A bottle of high-powered home brew exploded when Probationary Patrolman Fred Schmoeller picked it up during a raid last night on the saloon of Edward Brown at 200 Morgan street. The policeman's right hand was cut. Brown was arrested and home brew and whiskey found in the place was destroyed.

tance from the coast and turned back to land. A little after 10 o'clock the flyers were taking a more northerly course than had been expected. They had passed over the Channel between Cherbourg and Southampton. None of the ships, light-houses or airplanes that had been put on the alert for them got a glimpse of the plane, for the morning haze still hung over the water separating England from France.

Busy Night at Le Bourget
Saturday night was an unforgettable one at Le Bourget, but the actual beginning of the adventure was brief and businesslike. The flyers shook hands with a few friends and got into the cockpit, and were in the air in four minutes. Their plane ran 900 meters before the wheels on the third bound left the earth not far from where the course was crossed by a stream. Had they run much farther they might have been overtaken by a following wind for at least a mile.

Having been informed that weather conditions were propitious, that they would have the wind at their back for 1500 miles, although conditions off Newfoundland were not so good, Nungesser and Goll decided that now was the appointed time. Without hesitation, Goll, with his one good eye gazing directly at M. Delcambre, head of the Government Weather Bureau, who had apprised him of conditions, said: "Very well. I will take the responsibility. We will go."

"We Start," Says Goll
When Nungesser approached, Goll said: "We start. Is everything ready?"
"Yes," replied Nungesser.
"All right, then; we're off."

Instinctively the two men grasped each other's hands. Then they went home, Nungesser to sleep, Goll merely to lie down and relax. Somewhat word of their decision spread quickly and by midnight automobiles began to arrive at Le Bourget in droves. Before dawn there was a procession of them. Women in silks, eatings and furs and men in dinner jackets came to top off an evening at the night club with a fresh experience at dawn. Mechanics worked over the plane and at 3 o'clock in the morning the ship was ready.

TRANS-ATLANTIC RECORDS; ALCOCK AND BROWN FIRST MADE FLIGHT IN 1919

NEW YORK, May 9.—THE first nonstop trans-Atlantic flight was made by Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Whitten Brown, British flyers, in July, 1919. They flew from St. Johns, Newfoundland, to Clifden, Ireland, covering 1900 miles in 16 hours, 15 minutes, using a Vickers-Vimy biplane.

The same year Harry G. Hawker and Lieutenant-Commander MacKenzie Grieve attempted to cross from St. Johns to Ireland but fell into the sea. They were rescued six days after the start by a steamship.

A list of other trans-Atlantic flights is: May, 1919, the United States navy seaplane NC-4 flew from Newfoundland to Lisbon, Portugal, stopping at the Azores. July, 1919, the British airship R-34 flew from Scotland to New York and from New York to Pulham, England.

August, 1924, the United States army round-the-world flyers crossed from Scotland to Iceland to Greenland. Oct. 12-15, 1924, the Zeppelin ZR-3, now the United States navy dirigible Los Angeles, crossed from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J.

The present official world record for nonstop airline flight was made Sept. 17, 1926, by the French aviators, Chaille and Weiser, from Le Bourget, near Paris, to Bandar Abbas, Persia, a distance of 3213 miles. This was exceeded unofficially by the Paris-Djak, Persia flight Oct. 29, 1926, of the Frenchmen, Coste and Rignot, who flew 3415 miles without a stop, and probably by the Americans, Chamberlain and Acosta, when they set the world's duration record over Long Island recently by flying 51 hours, 11 minutes, 25 seconds at an estimated average speed of 80 miles an hour, probably more than 4000, miles.

SHRUBS AND TREES STOLEN

A reward of $100 has been offered for the arrest of thieves who specialize in stealing evergreen trees and shrubs from the Westover nursery at Chapman Station, St. Louis County.

Henry K. Enders, president of the nursery, posted the reward this morning after telling Chief of Police Gerk that County authorities have been unable to apprehend the robbers. Several hundred dollars worth of shrubs were dug up and hauled away at night from the nursery on the Olive Street road during recent weeks, according to Enders.

This bit of luck may be attributed in part to the fact that at the last minute, knowing they would have a following wind for at least the first half of the journey, they decided to take only 3800 liters of gasoline, instead of 4000, as originally contemplated.

Having been informed that weather conditions were propitious, that they would have the wind at their back for 1500 miles, although conditions off Newfoundland were not so good, Nungesser and Goll decided that now was the appointed time. Without hesitation, Goll, with his one good eye gazing directly at M. Delcambre, head of the Government Weather Bureau, who had apprised him of conditions, said: "Very well. I will take the responsibility. We will go."

"We Start," Says Goll
When Nungesser approached, Goll said: "We start. Is everything ready?"
"Yes," replied Nungesser.
"All right, then; we're off."

Instinctively the two men grasped each other's hands. Then they went home, Nungesser to sleep, Goll merely to lie down and relax. Somewhat word of their decision spread quickly and by midnight automobiles began to arrive at Le Bourget in droves. Before dawn there was a procession of them. Women in silks, eatings and furs and men in dinner jackets came to top off an evening at the night club with a fresh experience at dawn. Mechanics worked over the plane and at 3 o'clock in the morning the ship was ready.

ROBBERS TIE UP CONDUCTOR
Two men with revolvers entered the Pennsylvania Railroad's passenger office in the Railroad Y. M. C. A. Building, 2100 Eugenia street, shortly before noon today. They tied Harry J. Hinein, a conductor, in a chair, and threatened Herbert M. Pyle, a passenger agent, in an effort to get money. They fled hurriedly, however, with nothing but a revolver from a desk drawer.

BOSTON, May 9.—The speed of blood circulating through the human body can now be measured accurately under a system devised by Dr. J. W. Brown, of the Boston City Hospital, and Dr. S. W. Brown, of the Boston City Hospital, who said the method will be of great value in diagnosing and curing diseases of the heart and circulation system.

Dr. Blumgart and Dr. Brown described their system as follows: "A minute amount of a radioactive substance is injected into the veins of one arm, and by means of an electrical detector the time of its arrival at various parts of the body is noted. The distance is transmitted by the radio waves to a meter which gives the speed of the blood stream."

His initial number venture started his career as a rover. In 1887 he left the South for Ripley, O., where he married Alice K. Boyd. They settled at Duluth, where Humphreys re-entered the lumber business, framing a hotel in the timber country. He overheard three lumberjacks discussing a rich ore strike. He next prospected in British Columbia, where he opened valuable silver and gold camps. But in 1895 he returned to West Virginia to start again and he came here in 1896.

For 16 years he prospected for various minerals with unusual success.

Then he entered the oil business, after some "wildcat" operations near Tulsa, Ok., made the biggest strike of his life in the Big Muddy field of Wyoming. Other successes in Texas fields followed.

He kept the vow by establishing the Humphreys Foundation, with a huge endowment, to serve all classes who need help from the "down-an-outer" to youth in search of an education.

DENVER, Colo., May 9.—Col. A. E. Humphreys, who rose from a country school teacher to make and lose millions in lumber and mining in his youth, finally to recoup a vast fortune in oil, which he devoted to "helping God's children," is dead.

Humphreys accidentally shot himself to death at his home here yesterday while packing guns and fishing tackle for another invasion of the virgin mountain country he had often surveyed with a vision that brought him millions.

Leaving the dinner table, where he told Mrs. Humphreys and his two sons, Ira B. and A. E. Humphreys Jr., of plans for his trip to "Horn Wheel Gap, Colo., with Dr. David C. Bayless, field secretary of the Humphreys Foundation, he retired to the room where he stored his outdoor paraphernalia.

He apparently was examining a shotgun when the weapon was discharged. The charge struck him in the face. He died within three hours after reaching a hospital.

Born at Sissonville, W. Va., in 1859, he graduated from Marshall College, at Huntington, W. Va., and obtained a teacher's certificate before he was 16 years old. He attended Ohio Northern University.

He became prominently identified with the church in his boyhood and accepted his first position as a teacher at Sissonville, at 18, a month.

DENVER, Colo., May 9.—Col. A. E. Humphreys, who rose from a country school teacher to make and lose millions in lumber, and mining in his youth, finally to reap a vast fortune in oil, which he devoted to "helping God's children," is dead.

Humphreys accidentally shot himself to death at his home here yesterday while packing guns and fending off another invasion of the virgin mountain country he had often surveyed with a vision that brought him millions.

Leaving the dinner table, where he told Mrs. Humphreys and his two sons, Ira B. and A. E. Humphreys, Jr., of plans for his trip to Wagon Wheel Gap, Colo., with Dr. David C. Bayless, field secretary of the Humphreys Foundation, he retired to the room where he stored his shotgun and rifle.

Evidently testing the shotgun, he apparently was examining a shotgun when the weapon was discharged. The charge struck him in the face. He died within three minutes after receiving the wound.

Born at Sissonville, W. Va., in 1859, he graduated from Marshall College, at Huntington, W. Va., and obtained a teaching certificate before he was 16 years old. He later attended Ohio Northern University.

He became prominently identified with the church in his boyhood and accepted his first position as a teacher at Sissonville, at 25 months.

Declaring he was unable to countenance rivalry incident to a mountain election held in his school a year after he started teaching, he resigned and joined his father in a country store. Father and son soon left the grocery business to launch a lumber enterprise. They met a series of misfortunes and at the age of 27 Col. Humphreys found himself $200,000 in debt.

His initial lumber venture started his career as a rover. In 1887 he left the South for Ripley, O., where he married Alice K. Boyd. He next prospected in British Columbia, where he opened valuable silver and gold camps, but in 1895 he returned to West Virginia to enter coal mining. The West called again and he came here in 1896.

Snyder Murder Case Is Given to the Jury

scrupulous woman came across his path. What a catastrophe that those two should have met. I would not blacken any woman's name if I could help, but you must have the truth.

"That woman, like a poisonous serpent, drew Judd Gray into her slithering coils and there was no escape."

Millard said that Gray turned to the stimulation of whisky because he was exhausted by the stormy nature of his love.

"This woman," he continued, "hard as it is for me to say, tried to kill her husband by herself at least four times. By poison, by gas and by asphyxiation from the fumes of an automobile engine she sought and failed to end his life."

Like "Hypnotic Influence."

"She had in tow this poor fellow Gray, gradually warping his mind, and when she failed and failed again, she put him to her use. She knew that she had him where he must submit, he must obey. He struggled, gentlemen. When first she broached her plan he shook back in horror and told her she was terrible. But she knew that she could bend him to her desire, and she did."

"She kept at her victim until she had him. It was exacting as though he were a puppet, if her plan had gone through, would have got $36,000 in insurance."

To show Gray's condition of subservience, Millard cited Gray's testimony that Mrs. Snyder had "ried out" sleeping powders on him and he had permitted such use of himself. Of Haddon Gray of Syracuse, who arranged the bill for Judd Gray, Millard said: "God grant that we may all have friends like that."

Millard concluded by asking that "those who have never known the temptations of life cast the stone of contempt."

Seeks Manslaughter Verdict.

"But you and I," he said to the jury, "will go down into the mire where this poor fool has been dragged by a wicked woman who was herself a slave to her burning passion, and save him. The extreme culpability of this poor defendant is manslaughter. I would like to ask for a verdict of innocent, but I can see that you may feel he must bear some share of punishment because he fell slave to this woman."

"His mother will be waiting for your word. May God help you and guide you."

Millard spoke for one hour and 38 minutes.

Calls Gray "Despicable"

Wallace, for Mrs. Snyder, told the jury: "This is a case of a people of New York and Henry Judd Gray against Mrs. Snyder."

"And Henry Judd Gray is the most despicable creature that I have ever seen. Ruth Snyder has been put in a position by the double prosecution that is extremely unfair."

Wallace devoted the first part of his address to an attempt to pick to pieces the opening statement by counsel for Gray. He would quote each assertion of what was to be proven and then cite evidence in an effort to show that no such proof had been forthcoming. He was particularly severe about the "dominance" claims.

"Was he dominated when they went on that honeymoon trip?" he asked. "He urged her to go and I believe that Haddon Gray met them along the road."

As to the four-ounce bottle, Wallace said Gray was not so greatly affected that he lost his memory. "He has told us in detail of all he did in the next hours," Wallace said.

Wallace charged that Gray's whole case was based on a desire to hide behind a woman's skirt.

Denies Mrs. Snyder's Guilt.

"We have never believed Mrs. Snyder guilty, and we do not believe so now," he said. "It was Judd Gray who took off his glasses and armed himself with a sash weight for combat with a sleeping man."

Wallace's summation was in striking contrast to Millard's. Millard had spoken throughout in a voice hardly above a conversational tone. Wallace, on the other hand, shouted and stamped, flung his arms in wide gestures, pounded on State counsel table before he stood and turned to point menacingly at the little corner salesman.

FORMER TRAFFIC COP IS FREED OF MANSLAUGHTER

John B. Gerdes Discharged on Demurrer to Indictment for Shooting Walter Sisler Last May.

John B. Gerdes, 26 years old, a former traffic policeman, on trial for manslaughter in the death of Walter Sisler, 27, of 4707 Nebraska avenue, was freed today when Circuit Judge Hogan sustained a demurrer to the sufficiency of the evidence presented against him by the State. No defense testimony was offered.

Sisler was wounded May 19, 1926, by a stray bullet and died three days later. He was waiting for a street car at Grand boulevard and Windsor place when he felt a pain in his side, called a taxicab and went home. A physician examined him and found a bullet had lodged in his right side.

Investigation disclosed that at the time Sisler was wounded, five shots had been fired by Police-ward, three blocks north of Windsor place. Gerdes said he fired at the tires of an automobile whose driver, he said, had driven past an automatic stop signal and had disregarded Gerdes' order to halt.

Witnesses said that Gerdes fired five shots south in Grand, although the street was crowded with traffic. As a result of his conduct, Gerdes was dismissed from the police department.

State witnesses at the trial today identified Gerdes as the man who fired the shots, but none had seen Sisler struck, and could not say whether he was in the direct line of fire. The State was unable to prove to the satisfaction of Judge Hogan that a case had been made against Gerdes, although on similar evidence a Coroner's jury held him guilty of manslaughter.

Engineer Presents Plan for Prevention of Floods That Would Reclaim West Area.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 9.—Straightening and deepening the Mississippi River, to prevent floods such as the present, is advocated by I. B. Tanner, a member of the Western Society of Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the American Waterworks Association.

Tanner has had 30 years' experience in levee construction. "From Cairo to the Gulf in 60 hours, the Mississippi there is about 1100 miles with an average fall of less than four-tenths foot to the mile, and a flow of less than four miles an hour," Tanner says. "If the channel were straightened, the fall would be approximately one foot a mile and the channel would be something less than half its present length. Water would move from Cairo to the Gulf in 12 hours, whereas it now takes about 12 days."

"The cost of such a channel would be around $500,000,000. The idea presented would reclaim permanently thousands of thousands of acres of the richest land in the richest valley in the world and would obviate the disasters from floods. I believe that any effective flood control plan must take into account the crooked line of the present channel."

Former Dean of Webster College for Women Dies

Sister Louise Wise, 60, Had Been Member of Catholic Order of Loreto Since 1887.

Sister Louise Wise, 60 years old, for many years dean of the Webster (Catholic) College for Women, died yesterday morning at the college convent, after a lingering illness. She had been actively engaged in her duties as head of the English department and dean of women. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery following services tomorrow morning at the college chapel in Webster Groves.

Sister Louise in secular life was Henrietta Wise, daughter of Charles P. Wise, of Alton, Ill., one of the first graduates of St. Louis University. She took the veil of the Sisters of Loreto in 1887, after graduating from the Ursuline Convent at Alton, and later received a master of arts degree from St. Louis University. She was Sister Superior of the Loreto Order in Kansas City before she became dean at Webster College.

Sister Louise is survived by three brothers—the Rev. Albert R. Wise, Charles and Cyril Wise, missionaries; and by a sister, Mrs. Ignatius McMenamy, of St. Louis.

SECOND LIBERTY LOAN REDEMPTION CALLED

$1,700,000,000 to Be Paid Nov. 15, When Interest on Bonds Ceases.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Using one of the greatest publicity machines ever adopted by a Government agency, the Treasury today called the $1,700,000,000 outstanding of the second Liberty loan. These bonds, representing the balance of the original issue of $2,807,865,000, will be paid Nov. 15, the tenth anniversary of their issuance, and will not bear interest after that date.

Notice of the call will be advertised in every American language daily, weekly and semi-weekly newspaper, and placards will be placed in postoffices, banks and trust companies.

Radio will be used by the Treasury Department for the first time tomorrow, when Assistant Secretary Dewey will broadcast an announcement of the call through a hookup of stations as far west as Kansas City. A similar broadcast will be made from San Francisco.

Secretary Mellon explained that, in view of the intensive drive during the war to get the bonds into as many hands as possible, the Treasury feels under obligations to inform every bondholder that his bond will cease to bear interest after the November date.

Arrested for Taking Newspapers.

Two Negro youths were arrested yesterday on complaint of James P. Marshall Harris, 18 years old, of 924 North Fifteenth street, one of the boys, is quoted as admitting he and a companion, 14, took 25 papers.

If you don't own a MAYTAG -It's because you never tried one

THE Maytag sells itself through convincing demonstrations in the home, by washing big tubfuls in 3 to 7 minutes—by doing whole washings in one short hour. By washing even collars, cuffs and neckbands without hand-rubbing. By washing even greasy overalls clean as new in 10 minutes.

TRY the Maytag yourself. There is no obligation nor expense. After you see how much quicker and easier your washing is done you will wish you had used a Maytag long ago. Remember, if it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

FIGHT OVER CONTROL OF PRINCETON SEMINARY

Investigators Call for One Governing Body Instead of Two, to End Hostilities.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Blame for "divisions and hostilities" that have developed among the faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary in recent years, is placed upon the existence of two antagonistic governing boards, in the finding of a special investigating committee appointed by the Presbyterian General Assembly at Baltimore last June. The report will be submitted to the general assembly in San Francisco May 16-June 1.

The committee recommends that the assembly appoint a committee of men "thoroughly learned in the law of the Presbyterian Church to establish a single governing board." The report states "the reports of divisions and hostilities in Princeton do not have been exaggerated. These divisions and hostilities are not confined to the seminary campus, but are found in the boards, and, through the alumni, the report of them has gone all over the world, and because of these things the good name of Princeton is being injured."

One of the sections of the governing law of the seminary provides that "all matter relating to finances, fixing the salaries of professors, extent of endowment and aid of students, shall be, by the board of directors, submitted to the trustees of the seminary for approval."

The trustees interpret this section as requiring their approval of the amount of salaries paid professors, their approval of the distribution of funds in aid of students receiving help from the seminary and the extent of endowments. The directors contend that the trustees have no voice in fixing such amounts or making such distribution, their only function being to make appropriation of the amounts fixed by the directors, providing only that the trustees have funds on hand out of which to make such appropriations.

The investigating committee was composed of: Chairman, The Rev. William O. Thompson, Columbus, O.; the Rev. George N. Lusk, Woodstock, O.; the Rev. Walter L. Whallon, Newark, N. J.; Richard P. Ernest, Covington, Ky.; and Thomas H. D. Bradley, Chicago.

CHAPLIN LAWYERS ATTEMPT TO SHIELD ACTRESS' NAMES

Seek Court Order to Strike Out Sensational Charges Naming Five Movie Stars.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 9.—Sensational passages in the 44-page divorce complaint of Lita Grey Chaplin against her husband, Charles Spencer Chaplin, were to be attacked by attorneys for the film comedian today as they sought a court order to blot those allegations from the case.

The order, which would be in the form of a motion to strike out, is asked particularly against that portion of the complaint charging him with improper association with "five prominent motion picture actresses." Thus far the names of the actresses have not been disclosed.

TRACING THE BUILDERS OF KISH

British-American Expedition Finds Records of Ancient Sumerians.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 9.—One of archaeology's most alluring problems, the origin of the Sumerians, is expected to be solved next year by members of the Field Museum-Oxford University joint expedition into Mesopotamia. This was predicted today by D. C. Davies, director of the Field Museum, in a statement of the expedition's achievements in the last five years.

The Sumerians were a round-headed, non-Semitic people who are credited with constructing Kish, believed to be the first city built after the flood.

Twenty-five feet under a Sumerian temple, rebuilt by Nabonidus, King of Babylon in the sixth century, B. C., the party discovered the ruins of ancient Sumerian construction, built on plane-convex brick, as well as ancient sculptures and painted pottery. Next year, the excavators hope to find beneath the temple of Nabonidus records of the history of the Sumerians.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Attacked in her home by a man police think may be the stranger who choked Mrs. William McConnell to death on April 27, Mrs. Martha Robinson, 63 years old, suffered fractures of the skull and two ribs.

She was alone when the man gained admittance to the house last night by saying he had an important message. He beat her into unconsciousness. A $1 bill, the money she had in the house, was stolen.

Five Cars of Oil Burn in Wreck.

By the Associated Press.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., May 9.—The first section of Missouri Pacific freight train No. 78, Wichita to St. Louis, was wrecked one mile west of Warrensburg yesterday afternoon. Six tanks of fuel oil went over the embankment. All of the oil is a loss as the tanks ignited and the other was spilled. About 40,000 gallons of oil was burning tonight. None of the crew was injured.

A. F. OF L. HEAD URGES UNIFORM CHILD LAW

Green Says National Solution Is Necessary of Juvenile Labor Problem.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Legislation prohibiting employment of children in industrial establishments has served to protect their health, morals and physical well-being. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor said in an address before the American Child Health Association today, but a uniform child welfare law is needed to insure the security of the republic.

"The nation cannot possess healthy children, in a full and complete degree," he said, "and at the same time permit industry to employ children. We cannot have child health and child labor almu-taneously."

"The employment of children in industry is a curse to civilization.
It is incompatible with child welfare and is a violation of natural and physical laws. We must surrender one or the other, children's health or children's labor. Which shall it be?"

Problem National.
"Child labor is a national problem requiring the application of a national solution. It should be dealt with through the conferring of constitutional authority on the Congress of the United States."

Declaring that poverty was a primary cause for ill-health among children, Green added:
"In searching for a remedy for poverty we must first definitely decide to face facts and diligently apply ourselves to a study of the basic causes which produce it. For instance, the breadwinner must be accorded an opportunity to work and earn a wage sufficiently high to provide adequate food and clothing for his dependent children. This involves a study and understanding of industrial and economic facts with reference to family need, the family budget, adequate income and the problem of seasonal and intermittent employment as well as unemployment."

The Normal Child.
Here are the characteristics of the normal child as presented to the convention on behalf of Secretary Hoover:

"Physically the child has firm, strong muscles; well formed, well enamed teeth; breathes deeply and easily; participates in ordinary exercise without fatigue.
"He has pep, he shouts, yells, races and makes a noise; this is the animal spirit letting off steam.
"In mental terms, he is neither superficially happy nor deeply discouraged but his moods may vary at times from great happiness to deep discouragement."

HOLDINGS BY STATE BANKS

Comptroller Says Law Permits Them to Own National Stock.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Corporate holding of national bank stock by State banking institutions has been sanctioned by the Treasury because it does not come under the ban of the National Bank Act,
J. W. McIntosh, Comptroller of the Currency, said today in answering a complaint of Chairman McFadden of the House Banking and Currency Committee, that such ownership was "a vicious form of chain banking." He had requested the Comptroller to prevent further development of this practice.
"The corporations, which you hold responsible for the development of chain banking, are creatures of the State Legislatures," McIntosh said in a letter. "They receive their charter powers from the states."

Dr. T. E. White, Veterinarian, Dies.

arian for many years and later veterianarian for Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, is dead. He was

Earl Stanley Frick, 24 years old, was drowned today in Blue River.
The body had not been recovered tonight. The young man lost his life while adding his brother in rowing a motorboat over Guadalupe

FLOOD MENACES SUGAR SECTION OF LOUISIANA

Six Breaks in Mississippi
Levee Release Torrent Against Bayou des Glaives Dike.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—The sugar-growing section of central Louisiana today was threatened with inundation today as the flood waters of the Mississippi River, surging from six dike crevasses in the northeastern part of the State, piled up against the Bayou des Glaives levee.

A funnel-shaped stream, covering thousands of square miles of the delta of northeast Louisiana, poured into the backwater that already subjected the Bayou des Glaives levee to an enormous pressure. Federal and State engineers fear the dike cannot hold.

Hundreds of men were working on the threatened levee. A rescue fleet was being mobilized to meet any emergency.

The sugar section is thickly populated. It is estimated that 250,000 persons might be driven from their homes by a crevasse at Bayou des Glaives. Four million acres would be subject to overflow.

Division of Water.
Unless the dikes break the waters will be diverted through old river back into the Mississippi. That would increase the strain against the levees south of Angola.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, and Secretary Davis of the War Department, arrived here last night from Baton Rouge. After a conference with the Citizens' Flood Relief Committee and a visit to the Caernarvon crevasse, 15 miles below this city, Secretary Hoover will return to Baton Rouge to remain until after the crisis has passed and Secretary Davis will return to Washington.

Secretary Hoover said that a crevasse at Bayou des Glaives would force another 100,000 people into refugee camps, but that simple preparations had been made for them.

Scattered heavy rains in the last few days have started a new rise in the Mississippi River and its tributaries but Weather Forecaster Hayes does not expect a renewal of the flood unless there should be considerably more rain.

The Mississippi, at flood crest of 36.1 feet 13 days ago, had fallen to 23.7 feet by last Saturday, but rose 3.8 feet in 48 hours thereafter, to a mark of 27.5 this morning. It is expected to reach a maximum of 29.5 in three days more, just six inches below flood stage.

The Missouri River will go to just about bankful stage from Jefferson City to its mouth above St. Louis. These two streams may overflow a few very low places, but will not be in actual flood.

The Missouri at Hannibal stood at 19.5 feet today, having risen 3.3 feet in three days.

TWO REAL ESTATE AGENTS INDICTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

The indictment of Floyd A. Johnston, of 5917 Washington boulevard, and Arthur W. Busch, of 4219 Julian avenue, real estate dealers, on a charge of embezzling property valued at $5800 became known Saturday when the two men furnished bond of $2500 each to answer the charge. The indictment was voted early last week.

The indictment, voted by the grand jury early last week, was based on the complaint of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Long of 4213 Washington boulevard, who said they had lost property at 904 Eastgate avenue to the two dealers to be sold in June, 1924. The Longs charged that Johnston and Busch traded the property for another parcel and have refused to make an accounting.

Quaker
flavor

THE point to remember when buying breakfast oats is that only Quaker Oats have the rich Quaker flavor that you want.

One package of oats without that flavor may spoil your breakfasts for a week.

The price you pay is the same. Thus "trying" a substitute is a folly. Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years milling experience. No other oats has it. Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed.

Get Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes, or regular Quaker Oats as you have always known.

Your grocer has both kinds.

FOUR KILLED BY AUTOS IN AND NEAR ST. LOUIS

Adolph Laschober, 13, Fatally Hurt When Machine Driven by Father Strikes Tree.

Four persons, including a 13-year-old boy, died in and near St. Louis as the result of week-end automobile accidents, two of which occurred during the thunderstorm which swept this section early Saturday night.

The boy's father was held for homicide at an inquest today.

One man was crushed between two machines in a collision on the highway near O'Fallon, Ill., another was hit by an automobile in Wood River during the rain, and another drowned under an overturned machine in an East Side lake. The boy died after a machine he was riding in was wrecked against a tree.

Boy, 13, Killed When Riding in Auto Driven by Father.

Adolph Laschober, 13, of 4624 Tyrolea avenue, was fatally injured at 10:40 a. m. yesterday when his father's automobile sideswiped a parked machine on Morganford road at Fillmore street, swerved across the street and crashed into a tree.

The boy died at noon of skull fracture. His father, Carl Laschober, who was driving, and Joseph Gaal, 19, of 5431 Virginia avenue, who was a passenger, are at City Hospital in serious condition both suffering with skull fracture.

At the inquest, Laschober, a baker, was held on the testimony of Patrolman William Apperson who said the father smelled of alcohol and appeared to be intoxicated after the accident.

Man Drowned When Auto Runs Off Road Into Lake.

James G. Post, 46, a shop foreman of 2208 Illinois avenue, East St. Louis, was drowned at 4:45 a. m. yesterday when a coupe in which he was riding ran off a cinder road bordering Pittsburg Lake in East St. Louis, and upset in four feet of water.

Theodore Mount, 1627 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, the driver, crawled out the left door of the machine, which was above water. He said he swerved to avoid a depression in the road when Post seized the steering wheel and caused the machine to run down a 15-foot embankment.

Former St. Louisan Killed in Auto Accident Near O'Fallon, Ill.

Hugh Prill, 45, manager of the European Hotel at Centralia, Ill., a former St. Louisan, was crushed to death at 7:15 p. m. Saturday on the Lincoln highway, three and one-half miles west of O'Fallon, Ill.

After spending the day in St. Louis, he was driving to Centralia with Miss Alice Mantle, 25, of O'Fallon, when he stopped at the edge of the highway because of the heavy downpour. Several minutes later an automobile driven by Joseph Koltz, of Shiloh Valley, also eastbound, collided with Prill's car, and the two men were standing between the machines discussing the accident, when a third automobile, driven by Edward Mizee of Caseyville, crashed into the rear of the second car.

Prill was instantly killed between the first and second machines. Mizee's wife and child were badly shaken. Prill was a brother-in-law of Chief of Detectives Kaiser and resided in St. Louis until his wife's death three years ago.

Man Killed by Auto Turning Storm at Wood River.

While crossing Second street at Lorena avenue, Wood River, in Saturday night's driving rainstorm, Stanton Carter, 49 years old, a pipefitter, was struck and instantly killed by an automobile driven by Dale Pointer, 22, of Wood River. Carter, who was employed by the Frailie Pipe Line Co., came from Bucklin, Mo., a year ago. Pointer, who declared he was driving at moderate speed when Carter stepped in the path of his car, was arrested and released on bond pending an inquest tonight.

HELD FOR KILLING WOMAN

Chauffeur of Chicago Millionaire Detained by Police.

By the Associated Press. — Despite what the police declare to be complete evidence that he killed Miss Wilma Miller, 25 years old, a maid in the palatial Lake Forest home of Thorne Donnelly, millionaire manufacturer, Odor Puschell, a chauffeur on an adjoining estate, reiterated his claim of innocence today.

Puschell was arrested Saturday night shortly after Miss Miller was found in a dying condition on a staircase in the Donnelly home by a Negro furnace caretaker. The latter told police he saw Puschell run from the Donnelly estate as he approached.

The woman died several minutes after being taken to a hospital without recovering consciousness.

Safe in Garage Robbed of $30.
Ray Pinchert, proprietor of the Brentwood Garage, 8748 Manchester road, reported to county authorities today that burglars, entering the garage early today, broke open the safe and took $30 in cash and a gold watch.

GIRL PRISONER RESCUED BY NOTE DROPPED OUT WINDOW

Painter She Charges Locked Her in Room Is Arrested After She Escapes.

A note dropped from the upstairs window of 1609A South Broadway, about 5 p. m. yesterday, brought aid to Ruth Cantrell, 15 years old, of 809 1/2 Park avenue, who said she had been locked in the house by Le Roy Good, 28 years old, a painter. The note read: "Please come around to the back steps and help me get away from here. He went away and locked the door." The note was found by a pedestrian, who turned it over to a patrolman, and later aided the policeman in forcing the rear door. The girl was taken to city hospital for examination and after being pronounced uninjured, was sent home. Good was arrested, charged with peace disturbance.

Third Mellett Murder Trial Opens.

Mellett, Canton editor. Streitenberger is the fourth man indicted for the slaying, and the third to be brought to trial. terrific burst of speed, passed Sir Harry, which was closing in, and continued to win running away.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 9.—

out Ormsby's decision. Cobb says the ball sailed over the right field fence several feet inside the line.

Simmons contended the ball fair and yelled, so for this Ormsby turned him from the game. Cobb said that in leaping out of the catcher's box, after a pitch, he accidentally brushed Ormsby. Orms-

He started 21 times in five seasons and won 11 times. He is out of Valla, by the famous sire, Black Toney.

Ormsby is said to have replied: "Looks as though I made a mistake. But the decision will have stand."

Mack said he expected the customary three day suspension, but even notified of the indefinite suspensions he prepared to fight.

3 ONE-HIT CONTESTS IN MUNY GAMES

Harrisons Put Across Two Markers in Final Inning and Defeat Tower Groves, 7 to 6; Hemker, Rice and Huff Star.

The Municipal Baseball Association teams in action yesterday furnished a study in contrasts, the well-pitched games standing out in relief against a background of hitting orgies.

Three one-hit contests, one two-hit game and a three-hit affair made up the outstanding hurling performances. Hemker of the Pats team, last year's champion aggregation, shut out the Macabean in the Empire League 4 to 0, with one hit.

Huff gave only one safety in the Lindenwood-Gratiot victory in the South Grand League over Gravois, 6 to 0. The City League was the scene of the other single-hit performance. Reiss of West Florissant turned back the Hartman nine, 1 to 0. Yankowits of the Case Stars hurled a two-hit game and Meine of Laclede Council a three-hit contest.

Games like the Yellow 20 to 15 victory over Piggly Wiggly in the Mercantile the Southwest B. M. triumph over the Allens, 21 to 15, and Bly-Moss' 22 to 1 defeat of the Bell team supplied the heavy artillery.

Two good finishes stood out also. The Harrisons scored twice in the ninth to nose out the Tower Groves, 7 to 6, in the South Grand League, and the Typos beat out the Y. M. H. A. in the Empire League by counting one in the ninth to win, 8 to 1.

I have taken the I-ON-A-CO treatments for my goitre. After taking twelve treat-and my condition is improving daily. I now have proper control of my nerves, the enlargement of my throat has reduced shows very pronounced reduction in the

Jacob K. Karchmer Arrested on Complaint of Lawyer Who Invested $1000 in Necktie Business.

Now that the Mississippi Valley Knitting Mills, 1718 Washington avenue, has been taken over by creditors with claims totaling $250,000, as told exclusively in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, stockholders are beginning to doubt the 1000 per cent annual profit promised them will ever materialize.

Jacob K. Karchmer, president of the company, was arrested yesterday at his home, 6223 Cates avenue, on complaint of Harry Roth, an attorney, of 1420 North Garrison avenue, who says Karchmer's magnificent promises caused him to pay $1000 for 10 shares of stock, which he now considers worthless.

Released on $1000 Bond.

Karchmer was released on $1000 bond. He said Roth had been employed by the company as a clerk, while he went to law school at night, and probably was angry because he had been dismissed two weeks ago.

Since his expulsion from the American Legion in 1924, Karchmer has promoted various enterprises, using a charity appeal to bring in the dollars. He backed "Paunce Bill, the Blind Tie Man," who sells ties by mail, and both prospered. Last October he left "Paunce Bill" and organized the Mississippi Valley Knitting Mills, a $100,000 corporation, marketing ties by mail through the medium of "Necktie Tyler, the Blind Tie Salesman."

Investors in Karchmer's company included his relatives, friends and business associates, the amounts paid for stock ranging from $10,000 to $500. Based on his successful experience with "Paunce Bill," Karchmer predicted a $10,000 return within a year on each $1000 put in the company. Stockholders signed an agreement whereby they were to split profits 50-50 with Karchmer, and if the business continued more than one year, the company had the option of buying out the investors.

Did Mail Order Business.

The company did business on a large scale, mailing out 1,200,000 packages of ties to all sections of the country. Its failure is attributed to the fact that many of the recipients of the unordered merchandise did not return the ties or pay for them. Four fiber silk ties were offered for $1.25.

Mailing of ties was stopped last week by order of the creditors' committee. All money received for ties previously mailed is being distributed pro rata among creditors.

ORANGEADE TOAST
IN AUSTRALIA TO
THE DUKE OF YORKOccasion Dedication of New Capitol Located in a Dry District.

By the Associated Press.

CANTBERRA, Australia, May 9.—
The Duke of York and 160
other subjects of his royal father toasted the King in orangeade and lemonade at the official luncheon held in connection with the formal dedication of Australia's new Federal capitol here today. The absence of vinous liquors was due to the law making the Federal district strictly dry.The temporary capitol building, erected at a cost of $2,500,000 to serve until the permanent capitol can be built, was formally opened by the Duke in the presence of the Duchess, Governor-General
Lord Stonehaven, Premier Stanley
Bruce and a vast assemblage representing all parts of the Commonwealth. A review of troops ended the Duke and Duchess' participation in the memorable day's activities.The program was marred by a fatal airplane accident—the second which has occurred during the royal tour of Australia. Just as the Duke and Duchess were arriving at Parliament House for the opening ceremony a single-engine plane participating in the aerial review crashed from 400 feet, fatally injuring the pilot. The accident occurred about a mile from the reviewing stand. The Duke, upon learning of the news, immediately sent a message of condolence.OBSERVANCE OF JOAN OF ARC DAY GENERAL IN FRANCECrowd of 50,000 Participate in Exercises in the Rue de Rivoli

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 9.—In all of France, from the tiniest hamlets to the crowded streets of Paris, the glorious memory of Joan of Arc was celebrated yesterday, piously, proudly, patriotically. Everywhere
there were fetes and flowers, speches and songs in honor of France's saintly heroine and in all the churches her memory was especially observed, for this was Joan's day in the calendar of saints.Buildings, public and private, in the lively streets, as well as in the pretentious avenues and boulevards, were beflagged with the tricolor of the republic, the blue and white banner of Joan of Arc, the fleur de lis she had fought for, and the white and yellow of the church that made her one of the saints.
Her statues all over France were heaped high with flowers.In Paris, 50,000 crowded the Rue de Rivoli, anxious to get as close as possible to the pedestrian statue of Joan that looks out upon Tuilleries Gardens. At the foot of this statue two ministers, Premier Pain-leve and M. Sarraut, placed a wreath in the name of the Government of the republic. The Archbishop of Paris, Cardinal Dubois, likewise laid a floral offering there.
Then began a parade of the National Catholic Federation, which passed by the bronze heroine on horseback. Two hours later the monarchs had a parade of their own.RAILROAD TELEGRAPHERS IN

Fourteen Days.The second triennial and twenty-

Grand Division, Order of Railroad
Telegraphers, opened today in St.
Louis in the auditorium of the points in the United States and Canada are attending the convention, which will be in session 14 days. These delegates represent men and women employed by railroads in station, tower and teleorder, will preside at all sessions and presidents of railroads entering St. Louis have been invited to address the convention during business sessions.Entertainment for the delegates and visitors include a week-end trip to Hot Springs, Ark., next Saturday as guests of the Missouri

vide a special train.During the convention the La-president, Mrs. E. L. Carr.Economic Conference being held under the League of Nations auspices, Henry M. Robinson, head of the American delegation, said today the divers interests represented—manufacturers, merchants, producers and consumers—were substantial agreement as to what should be done to improve the world's economic condition.Differences of opinion, he added, had to do mainly with methods, and he was convinced that a frank exchange of views of all the dele-

a helpful conclusion, especially as the discussions demonstrated the

LONDON, May 9.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, told the House of Commons today
the British Government had decided that the present application of penalties for the anti-foreign outrages at Nanking and the failure of the Chinese Nationalists to observe the conditions of the Hankow agreement was inexpedient, however fully justified.Sir Austen said that he believed similar reasons had led other interested Governments to a like decision. Under those circumstances the British Government did not propose to address any further notes to Eugene Chen, the Cantonese Foreign Minister at Hankow.Free Hand for Future.
Great Britain, the Foreign Minister said, had informed the other powers of its decision but had reserved full liberty of action concerning the future and particularly concerning further outrages which may be perpetrated upon the British flag, British subjects and British property.Great Britain also has decided not to recoup the British concession at Hankow, which was given over to the Chinese authorities, by an agreement with the Hankow Government, at present.Won't Recoup Concession.
Sir Austen said that the Nationalist Communist Government at Hankow had lost its dominating position in South China and was nothing more than the shadow of a name.Great Britain, he said, had ample justification for the recoupment of the British concession and for regarding the agreement on the concession concluded by the acts of the Nationalist Government there.British have been at hand so as to recoup the concession, he continued, but on full consideration had decided not to take this step because it would not be forced on her.Blames Russia for Outrages.
The Foreign Minister, in addressing the House, declared that the Third International at Moscow was responsible for the Nanking disorders. He said, however, that the communist element in China was thoroughly discredited and that the perpetrators of the crimes against foreigners had been punished with a severity and speed which would have been impossible by any foreign power.The British Government, he continued, was unwilling, even under such provocation as it had received, to abandon hope that its friendly policy would soon evoke an equally friendly response from the Chinese Government, free from foreign domination, and this would be responsible for the Nanking disorders. He said, however, that the communist element in China was thoroughly discredited and that
the perpetrators of the crimes against foreigners had been punished with
a severity and speed which would have been impossible by any foreign power.Follows American View.

men suffered by the Thirty-fifth Division, in its advance to take Vauquois Hill and the Aire Valley, was due to official blundering are made in an article by Norman S.
Hall, appearing in the issue of Liberty for May 14. The article is entitled "Five Red Days," and characterizes the fighting between Sept. 26 and Sept. 30 in the Aire Valley as "the bitterest, strife American troops ever took part in."Fulsome tribute for its courage is paid the 138th Infantry, recruited mainly from St. Louis, but the article is devoted for the most part to the thesis that the Thirty-fifth Division was insufficiently equipped when the battle began, that the men were inadequately equipped, and that "mixed orders" unnecessarily sacrificed hundreds.Calls Losses Slaughter.
"In five red days of the bitterest strife American troops ever have participated in, the Thirty-fifth Division lost 24 officers and 531 men killed," says the article. "The officers and 5704 men wounded, and six officers and 507 men temporarily missing. That's not battle.
It's a slaughter!"Those who died and the battered bodies of the wounded were the price of somebody's blunder. They went in without officers, and men died because of that. They went in without sufficient equipment and men died because of that. Their communications broke down or were blown out and men died because of that.Their food gave out and they fought an entrenched, well-fed enemy with empty stomachs. Their ammunition gave out, but they fought on, cursing the staff. God, how men in the line come to hate the staff at a time like that.Some of the reasons for the blunder were: "The Thirty-fifth Division had no plan of attack."
"They had to let the wounded bleed to death because there wasn't time to twist a tourniquet about the arm of a man who had shared his last rag with them. Sometimes there is a man who is responsible for all that. The buck can be passed so far, but there is always a last man. The last man has a lot to answer for."Elsewhere the article says: "The mighty menace of Vauquois Hill—Le Mont des Morts—is tradition
now. The guns crashed it. The 138th Infantry swarmed over it in a fog as thick as a fisherman's shirt, and they died in the valley of the Aire. There the machine guns got them. Man, they were thick in that valley, those machine guns!"They lost their first assaulting waves almost to a man, and on the left the 137th Infantry, with its divisional headquarters, was interrupted communications. . . .Unexpected Transfer of Officers.

"Four days before the battle,
Major Gen. Peter E. Traub, the divisional commander, removed Brigadier-General Charles I. Martin from command of the Seventieth Infantry Brigade, replacing him with Col. Kirby Walker. A comparison of the military achievements of these two generals is not interesting here, but it is certain that the Seventieth regarded General Martin with great confidence."The next day Col. Pierce A.
Murphy was relieved of command of the 140th (Missouri) Infantry and Col. E. Delaplane assuming command. Col. Delaplane had been divisional ordnance officer—a staff position—and was not acquainted with the officers and men of the 140th. He was an excellent ordnance officer, but was unaccustomed to the command of units as large as a regiment. There were other changes in the staff of the 140th and these transfers unquestionably accented the atmosphere of insecurity that pervaded the Divi-

Royal Informality Displeases Spain

THERE is resentment in Spanish court circles over the apparent informality attached to the visit of the Prince of Wales to Spanish royalty. Some of the causes of criticism are, the Prince's preference for American and English dancing partners to the virtual exclusion of Spain's aristocratic beauties; his appearance at an official inspection of the Spanish fleet attired in a sack suit and slouch hat, while all others wore gold braid and medals; and after inspecting one ship, leaving the royal party in the lurch to depart for the golf courses; and, most of all, his refusal to witness a bull-fight. Here's the Prince of Wales (left) driving through the streets of a Spanish city with King Alfonso of Spain.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Old River Men on Flood Control.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE present agitation on how to prevent Mississippi floods has been a burning question for the last 50 years. During the '70s, arguments were hotly contested between the army engineers, who favored high levees, and the steamboat men, who favored opening the natural outlets then made by the great river. Capt. Eads, who built our bridge and then dug out a deep-water channel for steamships to reach New Orleans, wanted the Government to make these outlets permanent, so that when a certain high stage of water was reached the overflow could and would seek relief by these new channels.

Capt. Thomas Leathers, who studied the lower river for 30 years, said the mouth of Red River in Louisiana, connected by the Atchafalaya River and bayous to the Gulf of Mexico, would form a natural channel of this kind. Capt. John A. Johnson, who navigated his great steamboat, the Robert E. Lee, over this same route for years, stated that New Orleans would some day be flooded unless an outlet was made through Lake Pontchartrain and Lake Bourne from the Mississippi River to the Gulf of Mexico. Our captains and pilots of lower river boats were all of them in favor of having a spillway at New Madrid, Mo., to near Helena, Ark., through a natural channel via Nigger Wood swamp, Little River swamp and the St. Francis River basin.

Mr. Parker, in his admirable address, says levees have reached their limit to hold a certain pressure of water, and it seems to be the case. Objectors to the levee plan alone stress the point that as the levees go higher so does the bottom of the river fill up. If that is the case, spillways must be made use of. It must have been grudgingly ordered to cut the Poydras levee when old navigators agitated this years ago.

Treatment of Weaker Peoples.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN a recent issue of your highly valued paper Mr. J. M. Sprecher rises to praise your editorials and "appreciate their liberal views." It is obvious, however, that he has not appreciated your liberal views, much less digested them, for he writes very liberally.

His statement that "any native administration of a backward people is always abusive and only for the benefit of a group of an elected few" is of course generally true, but by this standard the Americans are among the most backward of peoples. I am quite willing to agree with this but when he says "I have come to the conclusion that no matter how rotten and corrupt a white man's administration in a colored country, it will be infinitely better than native rule," he is far from stating anything original. This is merely the parrotlike mouthing of stereotyped condemnations that are always used to whitewash the flagrant crimes of the nations that assume "the white man's burden."

In this sorry scheme it matters not so much whether the road we walk be good or bad, foolish or wise. But it matters a great deal whether we may take a road of our own choosing or be driven like galley slaves.

It is for such to work out his own destiny, and as several of our darker brothers have said, (notably Confucius, the Buddha and Jesus) "Do not do unto others what you would not have others do unto you."

L. D. PERKINS.

A Plea for Earl Carroll.

THE writer feels called upon to bring attention to the case of Earl Carroll who is under sentence of a year and a day at the Atlanta penitentiary. Apparently Mr. Carroll is a sick man; has suffered humiliation and disgrace in sufficient degree to afford ample punishment for his offense and now deserves a pardon. At most the general impression regarding his offense was that he probably "fled like a gentleman" to protect his friends and guests, many of whom are more or less prominent and in the public eye.

He was photographed and fingerprinted and measured herded with thugs and convicted members of the underworld, was this mild mannered young man, as though he were a habitual criminal, and his picture will now have a place forever in the "Rogues Gallery." He realizes all this now and he has learned a lesson that will guide him into straighter paths if allowed his freedom. I believe that careful reflection will convince any reasonable mind that the ends of justice have been met in this case—so let's get him out of the hospital in Greenville, S. C., and send him home to his family. He is a genius in the art of entertaining and producing entertainment for the people—the lighter sort that tends to lighten the hearts of the people. In a world so full of tragedy and sordidness in human lives men of his type are needed.

A petition asking the President to pardon him is circulating in Omaha. What about one in St. Louis? L. P. DALE.

FLOOD CONTROL AND RELIEF.

The most important point suggested by Secretary Hoover in the broad, comprehensive plan for flood control he outlined for the Sunday Post-Dispatch, was the establishing of a central point for constructive, national policies in the handling of the rivers. Mr. Hoover thought the work should be concentrated in a governmental department which would supervise and control all governmental activities in the direction of flood control and river navigation. He thought these two objectives were essential and should be worked out together. Mr. Hoover wants an organization primarily embracing all the divisions of the work. Each tributary to the Mississippi offers its own problems and should be placed under a special commission, developing the peculiar needs of each river but working in harmony with the general plan.

The army engineers, he suggests, should be assigned in peace time to the commission and other engineering skill as may be needed should be utilized. But the engineers should do only the technical work, and the general control with the expenditure of funds would be in the hands of the commissions. He thinks there ought to be local responsibility and co-operation, combined with Federal responsibility and co-operation. All of this plan must be worked out on a practical basis. It will require the organization of one Government department and the organization of commissions and engineering forces.

For the lower Mississippi it is agreed by the Mississippi River Commission that levees must be the main dependence. Col. Potter seriously questions the value of spillways. In fact he presents strong arguments against them, as ultimately tending to impair the depth and force of the channel and thus creating new and difficult problems, both for navigation and flood control. Col. Potter thinks the major problem lies in the lower river, because the great floods are there and not in the upper river. It is the combination of the high waters from the upper rivers which causes the tremendous devastating floods in the lower river.

For meeting of the problem of the lower river the River Commission practically has its plans complete and can present them in a very brief time. It is the river below Cairo which offers the immediate pressing necessity for action.

Congress can act upon these plans and authorize within a very short time the work necessary to rebuild the levees, to extend, strengthen and heighten them, as the commission may recommend. What funds may be necessary it is yet to be determined. That should be ascertained, and should be provided so that the work of repair and improvement can be commenced at the earliest possible time. Provision should be made for its continuance on a comprehensive scale until it is finished, to guard against any floods that may come in the near future.

In connection with this need of immediate work for the repair and improvement of the levee system as soon as the floods recede, there is the need of relief and rehabilitation. That cannot wait upon slow, ordinary processes. There must be ample funds for the relief of victims and for the restoration of homes and farms.

Can this be done without congressional legislation? That is the important question. We believe the President, instead of thrusting aside all suggestions of a special session, should rapidly canvass the situation and discover what action is needed in the immediate future. He should be governed wholly by a consideration of pressing needs. There is strong reason to believe that an extra session is the solution.

WHAT PRICE NANKING?

While the Chinese are waiting to get the bill for the Nanking affair, in which six aliens were killed, they are getting small comfort from a study of precedents. For their uprightness in 1841 they took a sound thrashing and saved Great Britain's feelings with Hongkong and $21,000,000. For the two German missionaries murdered in Shantung in 1897 they handed over Kiaochow. For the Boxer rebellion in 1900 they agreed to shell out $337,500,000. And so on. The high cost of atrocities has kept China on its uppers for 80 years.

ANOTHER "REVELRY."

Of course, Upton Sinclair couldn't be expected to allow another novelist to monopolize all that good material about the Ohio Gang and the oil scandals. Ever since Mr. Sinclair wrote "The Jungle" he has considered that he had a prior claim on the fictional possibilities of every case of corruption, graft and plutocratic outrageousness in America.

But, unfortunately, Samuel Hopkins Adams wrote "Revelry" before Mr. Sinclair got around to the subject. So Mr. Sinclair had to perform the feat of writing a novel that was more sensational than "Revelry." Therefore, he has written "Oil," which goes Mr. Adams' work one better.

Most of the principals and incidents may easily be recognized. There is an oil magnate who formerly prospected for gold, and who is obviously meant to be the hero of Elk Hills. There is another oil man who is said to have taken out accident insurance and then shot off a toe, in order to secure the funds to complete a well. He will be immediately recognized by all who followed the accounts of the Teapot Dome messalliance in the press. With their confederates, these two dominate their candidate for President, elect him at great expense, and bribe the administration in order to secure some naval oil reserves.

The plot thus follows the newspaper accounts of the oil scandals. The sensational feature of Mr. Sinclair's novel is the fact that he calls President Harding by his real name, whereas Mr. Adams wrote "Revelry" before Mr. Sinclair got around to the subject. So Mr. Sinclair had to perform the feat of writing a novel that was more sensational than "Revelry." Therefore, he has written "Oil," which goes Mr. Adams' work one better.

To expect Mr. Sinclair to obey the conventions of the authentic political novel would hence be unreasonable. Like Mr. Adams, he is trying to shock the public rather than to reform conditions, and at that task, it must be admitted, he has excelled the author of "Revelry."

We are unable to master the intricacies of Hicks finance, but as we understand it $5000 Hicks was about $1.75.

THE SUMMER SCHOOLS.

When the School Board recently approved the proposition for the curtailment of summer schools, it appears it did not know quite what it was doing. Some of the members now claim they were misinformed as to the nature of the proposition, and are going to try to reopen the subject at the Tuesday evening meeting.

Originally, it was intended to make the summer schools serve a two-fold purpose. One was to permit backward or retarded students to catch up, and the other was to give particularly bright or "accelerated" students a chance to go ahead more swiftly. Somewhere in the shuffle, the second idea was stricken from the plan and, as matters stand, only retarded students will be admitted to summer schools.

Supt. Maddox's position is not quite clear. It seems that while he acquiesced in the curtailment, he gave out a statement criticizing the move as "a backward step." Altogether, it would be hard to imagine a more muddled situation.

Because of the secrecy which shrouds the doings of the School Board, it is not often the public gets an insight into the way the schools are managed. The present disclosure is not very reassuring. We find the board here voting on a major policy and giving its approval without knowing what that major policy is.

Clearly, there is a cog loose in the machine.

Curiously enough, the moment anybody mentions the gas works in St. Louis everybody thinks of the water works.

OUR DUTY TO OUR NATIONALS.

As a rule our nationals in foreign countries are not very well pleased with us. Those in China, for instance, think we should be more aggressive over there than we are. They would have us put China to rights and make her submit herself to her exploiters. They are saying of Mr. Coolidge what our nationals in Mexico were saying not so many years ago of Mr. Wilson. We have just gone through something of the sort with our nationals in Nicaragua, whom we pleased only by occupying the country and forcing the revolutionaries to desist. Nothing less than that would have contented them. Slight in themselves, the cost of their investments is to us oftentimes enormous.

Mr. Coolidge frequently says that we owe these people protection in their lives and property, and so we do. That is not, however, saying that our nationals are reasonable with us, or that we can hope often to meet their expectations. Even Great Britain, with all her boasted loyalty to her subjects, has had to recede from that tradition in China. It is another China than it used to be in the old days, when there was always succor for the beleaguered Briton. It is an armed China, awakened to consciousness of her own supineness and her own power.

So that while the expectations of us increase everywhere among our nationals, who are becoming more numerous, wax lusty in wealth, and grow more daring in adventure, our ability to protect them steadily diminishes. It is a great question with every country whose nationals are scattered all over the world how far they are entitled to protection. We have a growing opinion in the United States that our nationals are exploiting us. If the truth were known, there is more sympathy at home for the American editors in China, Messrs. Powell and Clark, who are fighting for noninterference with her domestic affairs, than there is for the American business men in China who would have us subdue her. There has been a widespread resentment of the burden put upon us by Americans in Latin-America. The question is seriously asked, and it will grow in insistence, how far the flag should follow either the man or the dollar. Mr. Coolidge has at times seemed to feel that our investments justify anything we may do to protect them, that our nationals are entitled to the same protection abroad that they command at home. He has not attempted to say that beyond a point this is impracticable, though it obviously is.

Our nationals, meanwhile, will add nothing to this interesting discussion. They will continue to berate us while we think, though more the thinking we do the less likely we are to become that bully they would have us.

Mr. Coolidge finds that there is much more enthusiasm about Armageddon than there is about Disarmageddon.

HORRID PANAMA.

Hitherto the little republic of Panama has been the most dutiful of our wards. While other countries around the Caribbean have been more or less incorrigible, Panama has always been quite agreeable to anything we proposed. She would play dead, jump through, or go wiggle-waggle. It was for us to say.

What, therefore, is our surprise to see Panama suddenly abandon her sheltered lot as a trained seal and become the most undutiful of our wards. The first revolt came when we asked her to make with us a treaty by which defense of the Panama Canal became our joint concern. Panama refused to enter into any such agreement. She said it was our concern. She still says so.

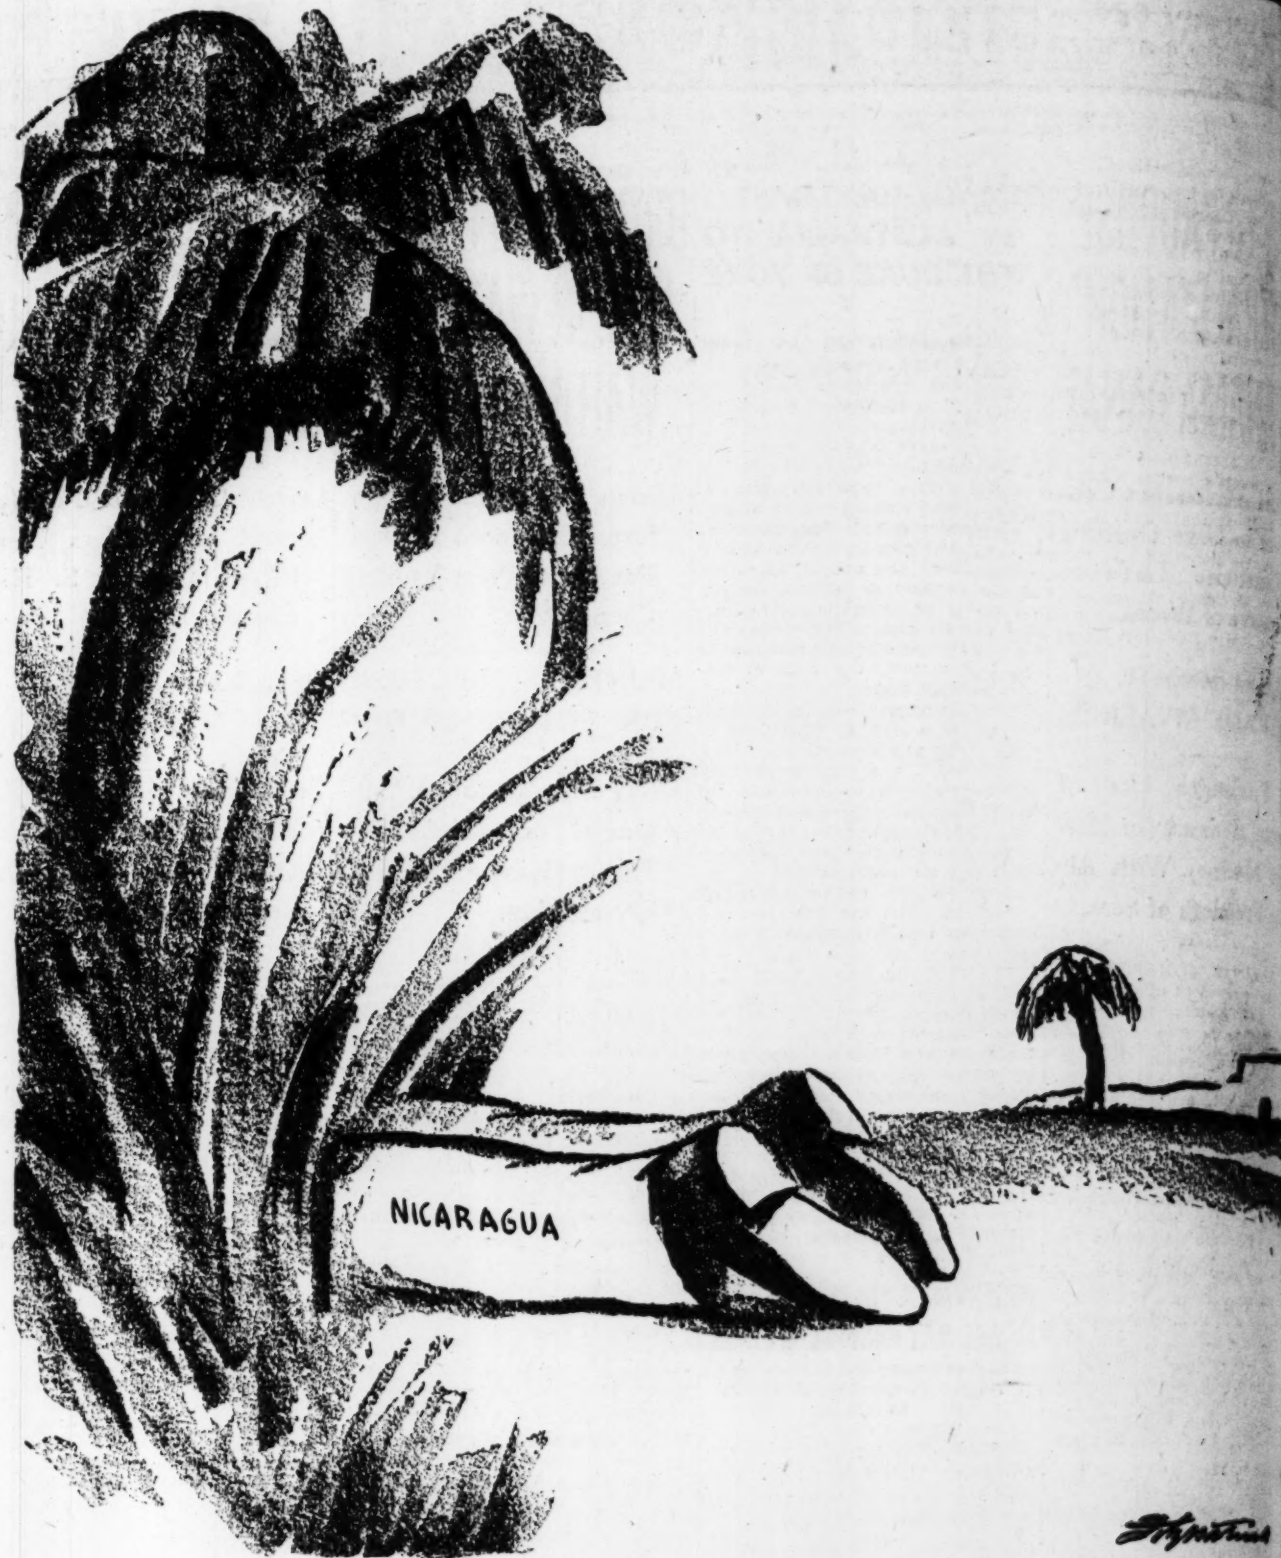

We had not ceased smarting from this rebuke when the case of the steamer Federalship came up. The Federalship is one of a fleet of 10 rum runners on our Pacific coast. A Canadian ship, she carries the flag of Panama. On March 2 three of our coast guard cutters ran her down, fired upon her, and captured her 300 miles off San Francisco. She was towed in as a prize, her officers, and crew indicted and her $1,000,000 cargo of liquor held. It was an act of piracy.

Then Panama spoke. She demanded that the Federalship be released. When our State Department reminded her that she has agreed with us by treaty not to register ships habitually engaged in smuggling, she answered that no ship so charged is to be judged outside of her own ports. About the same time Judge Burquoin of the United States District Court at San Francisco delivered an opinion upholding Panama's contention. He said the capture of the Federalship was "a sheer act of aggression and trespass." She was released.

How is that for a mere child of ours, a waif picked up on the doorstep of international politics? Bad, undutiful, horrid Panama!

Our idea of a dull day is the Fourth of July in Nicaragua.

"Tho" has made the dictionary after 20 years, or long after everybody thought it was "thru."

WHO COLLECTS THE INSURANCE?

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

NEWSPAPER COURAGE.

From the Chicago Journal of Commerce.

THE Pulitzer prize awards for extraordinary accomplishments in journalism in the year 1926 call to public attention the services of the Canton (O.) Daily News and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in two highly important fields of newspaper work.

In our judgment, "the most distinguished and meritorious public service rendered by any American newspaper during the year" was the service of the St. Louis newspaper in courageously and level-headedly procuring the information, and instigating the campaign, leading to the impeachment and ultimate resignation of Judge George W. English of the United States Court for the Eastern District of Illinois.

The advisory board of the School of Journalism of Columbia University awards the $500 gold medal for "the most distinguished and meritorious public service" to the Canton Daily News, "for its brave, patriotic and effective fight for the purification of municipal politics and for the ending of a vicious state of affairs brought about by collusion between city authorities and the criminal element, a fight which had a tragic result in the assassination of the editor of the paper, Don R. Mellett."

The service of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is recognized in another form. John T. Rogers, reporter for the Post-Dispatch, who was in charge of the investigation in the English case, is awarded $1000 for giving "the best example of a reporter's work during the year."

It seems to us, from our observation of the contents of the Post-Dispatch during the English inquiry, that the work which led to the cleansing of the United States bench was the work of the newspaper as an organization, and not merely the work of a single reporter, however able he may have proved himself to be. However, the $1000 is of more benefit to Mr. Rogers than the gold medal would be to the Post-Dispatch. We have never known any reporter, good, bad or indifferent, who could not have made felicitous use of a thousand dollars.

As to the work of the Canton News, it was remarkably meritorious, beyond a doubt. But the Canton municipal reform campaign did not encounter such difficulties as obstructed the St. Louis Post-Dispatch when it set out to overcome the vast congressional inertia which makes impeachment proceedings extraordinarily difficult. The Post-Dispatch built its evidence mountain-high. A lesser effort would have resulted in failure.

Probably the assassination of Mr. Mellett was the decisive factor which influenced the Pulitzer award board to term the work of the Canton News "the most distinguished and meritorious public service rendered by any American newspaper during the year." Don Mellett met death in the performance of his duty. In these times an editor's work seldom brings him into peril of his life. It is fitting that the courage of Mr. Mellett should be signally recognized. The Pulitzer board formally defines him as one of the heroic figures of American journalism.

CYNICISM IN HELENA.

From The Helena (Mont.) Independent.

A RELIGIOUS magazine says there are 560,000,000 Christians in the world. Wonder where they keep themselves?

WHAT A FAIR TRIAL IS.

From a decision by the Eighth District U. S. Court of Appeals.

THE term, fair trial, is often used, but not often defined. It means a trial conducted in all material things in conformity to law. It consists not only in observance of the naked forms of law, but in a recognition and just appreciation of its principles. It means a trial before an impartial judge, an impartial jury and in an atmosphere of judicial calm.

Being impartial means being indifferent as between the parties. It means that the acts and language of the prosecuting attorney are subject to control, that his duty consists not in securing convictions at all hazards, but in ascertaining the truth. It means that the defendant shall have a fair opportunity through counsel to outline his defense to the jury. It means that the right of cross-examination shall be respected. It means that while the judge may and should direct and control the proceedings, yet he may not extend his activities so far as to become, in effect, either an assisting prosecutor or a thirteenth juror.

INCOME TAX BLANKS.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

INNOCENT as it may seem, the work of the joint committee of Congress to simplify the wording of the tax laws will arouse uneasiness among users of the personal income tax blank. However good the intentions of the committee, it will work under the constant temptation to extend its efforts and to undertake to simplify the fascinating puzzle that Uncle Sam hands out to his bright nephews and nieces every year. The problem of simplifying that blank offers in itself a fascinating puzzle; there lies the peril. Can the committee resist the urge to play with the tempting problem? The safest course might be not to resist but to turn its puzzle-solving instincts into a really helpful channel. The great need of the income taxpayer is for a more intricate form to fill out. The present one did very well for a time. But now that solvers have generally mastered it they feel that the Government ought to try them with another a little more advanced.

LOVE SONG IN AN UNUSUAL MANNER

You demand that I prove that I love my dear,
And because of the love that I have for my heart,
I shall strive and endeavor to make my dear clear,
But, to tell you the truth, it is proved I start.

Not a poet I know could have sung so wisely
That is mine since the day I glimpsed your sweet face,
For each poet, in praising the charms of his
To his lady's blue eyes gave a precious place.

It must be, then, with love that my heart is sore,
That I value your heart far more than a crown;
I have written you poems—a dozen or so—
And I happen to know, dear, that your eyes are brown.

Of Making Man

A Truly Great Book.

TRAVELS IN ARABIA DESERTA. By Charles M. Doughty (Boni & Livoright).

N EARLY a half century ago, a highly cultivated Englishman, in very poor health, ventured alone into the deserts of Arabia, spent two years with the Bedouin tribes, and emerged to set forth his experiences in a ponderous two-volume work of over 1300 closely printed pages.

That two-year adventure of a defenseless Christian among the wild Mohammedans of the desert was in itself, at that time, a tremendous achievement. Doughty was quite the mercy of any fanatic who might care to kill him, for the British Consul at Damascus had refused to countenance his undertaking. His immunity from attack seems to have been due solely to his character—that of a gentle philosopher, truthful and just and profoundly sympathetic in all human relations. Knowing well the hatred that existed for a "Nazarany" (Christian) among those wild tribesmen, he freely confessed his faith to them and won their regard by doing so.

It is said that Doughty is still remembered with honor by the young tribesmen whose grandfathers knew him almost half a century ago, and that as a result of the Doughty legend, justice, honesty and wisdom are still regarded by them as the essential qualities of all Englishmen.

Great as Doughty's Arabian adventure was, the book he wrote is far greater; for into it he put not only a vast amount of information, but also the very precious stuff of the spirit that had taken him into the desert and the character that had protected and sustained him there.

"Arabia Deserta" first appeared in 1845. From the commercial standpoint it must have seemed about the least promising manuscript imaginable. There are over a half million words in the work, and its style is peculiarly Doughty's own; a fascinating style, once the reader has surrendered to it, nevertheless not a style that makes

The Week's News

By NIE

CERTAINLY Babe Ruth is the Valentino when it comes to looks, but as a motion picture comedian he ranks with the best of them and "Babe Comes Home," his first picture at the Missouri this week, is another one of those low but laughable affairs which keeps its audiences in roars of delight from start to finish. The story concerns a baseball player and his love affair with Anna Q. Nilsson who is a most refined laundry worker. Babe is the ball player and his habit of chewing tobacco almost wrecks the vine-covered cottage which he has prepared for the laundress but at the finish she admits that chewing the filthy weed and knocking necessary home runs go hand in hand.

Louise Fazenda as another, but not quite so particular, laundress in the same shop with Anna, adds a lot to the fun.

An Apology

An error was made in printing our address yesterday in our full-page "Reorganization Sale" ad in the Post-Dispatch.

Our other locations are 412 North Twelfth street and 5206-08-10-12 Gravois avenue. Phenomenal sales are being conducted at each location. Be sure to take advantage of this unusual opportunity.

3 HELD FOR ATTEMPT TO DYNAMITE HOTEL

Prisoner Says He Only Intended to Scare Owner by Blowing Off Door.

Three union labor men are under arrest, following an unsuccessful attempt at Saturday midnight to dynamite Hotel May, a three-story building nearing completion at 2840 Olive street.

The prisoners say they are: Harry Hagen, 30 years old, of 4217 Page boulevard, business agent of the International Union of Wood, "Fire and Metal Lathers, Local No. 73, St. Louis; No. 64, East St. Louis, No. 187, Granite City and No. 234, Easton; Harold Hale, 22, a union lather, of the Page boulevard address, and Louis P. Toale, 27, deputy union organizer, of Chicago.

Police have been on the watch for vandals who have dynamited two buildings in East St. Louis and thrown cements on houses in St. Louis and St. Louis County, where nonunion labor has been employed.

Detectives saw Hagen and Hale park an automobile on Locust boulevard and walk south to the rear of Hotel May, where they separated. As the detectives approached, Hale put down in the alley 10 sticks of dynamite tied with electricians' tape. A pair of pliers and a 16-foot length of fuse were found in his shirt. Hagen, standing at a rear door, had a percussion cap, a can of "canned heat" and a flashlight.

Hagen Makes Statement.
Taken to the Laclede Avenue Station, Hagen sat down at a typewriter and wrote his own statement. He said he had a grievance against the owner of the building, Frank Yawitz, a real estate dealer of 5579 Waterman avenue, because he had employed nonunion lathers on the structure, and intended to "scare" him by "blowing off" a rear door. He denied he intended to wreck the whole structure. He denied wrecking or marring any other buildings.

He said he had bought the dynamite, fuse and cap for $20 at an East St. Louis store. There is a Federal law against interstate transportation of explosives without permit.

Hale admitted he knew he was carrying dynamite, but professed ignorance as to how it was to be used.

On information furnished by Hagen, police went to a room at the Maryland Hotel and arrested Toale and a 24-year-old man, identified as a man of "canned heat" in his coat. Federal and State warrants will be applied for. Business Agents of Tailors' Union Held.

Oscar Chorilinsky, 42 years old, of 6249 Cates avenue, business agent of the Tailors' Union, was arrested in Union Station midway yesterday while carrying a grip which contained an ounce of potassium, five ounces of carbon bisulphide and several sticks of yellow phosphorus—ingredients such as have been used, according to police, to make stench bombs thrown in the present cleaners' and dyers' strike. Chorilinsky denied he had anything to do with the bombing.

NEGRO MURDER SUSPECT HELD

Chauffeur Arrested After Death of Poplar Bluff Woman.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., May 9.—Sheriff McCown Saturday night arrested William Childers, 31, colored, a Negro, for questioning in the murder of Mrs. Genevieve Turner, 30 years old, whose body was found with the throat cut and bearing stab wounds, in a clump of bushes in North Poplar Bluff Saturday morning.

Childers had been employed by Mrs. Turner, who was a widow, as a chauffeur and yardman, and was arrested as a suspect. A bunch of keys and a small penknife, with which the crime apparently was committed, were found near the body. Evidence that Mrs. Turner had struggled with her assailant were found near a road which runs through a wooded section. The body had been dragged a distance of 60 feet and deposited in the clump of bushes in an effort to conceal it. Physicians who examined the body estimated that the murder was committed about 12 hours before the body was found.

CITY'S FLOOD RELIEF PAST $285,000 MARK

Further Funds Will Come From Women's Booths in Stores and Hotel Lobbies.

The Flood Relief Fund of the St. Louis Red Cross passed the $285,000 mark this morning, beginning the fourth week of a campaign for $400,000 in this vicinity. The total did not include contributions received through the various booths set up by women in department stores, hotel lobbies and outlying drug stores Saturday. These booths will be maintained today and tomorrow, and contributions in any amount will be accepted either at the booths or at the Mercantile Trust Co., financial headquarters for the drive.

The Red Cross fund will receive the first $10,000 taken in at the country carnival at Grant's Farm to be given by Catholic women's organizations. It was announced yesterday. The carnival originally was planned for the benefit of the St. Louis University Charity Hospital, which under the changed plans will get all over $1000 of the receipts.

Large contributions received today included $500 each from the National Tube Co. and Laclede Glass Co. A considerable number of "repeat" contributions also were received from firms and individuals.

Percy Redmond, general manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., announced a gift of $25,000 from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. to the National Red Cross fund, the contribution of the associated companies of the Bell system, including the Southwestern.

RID OF ILLS DUE TO CONSTIPATION

Texas Lady Says She Felt Fine After Taking Black-Draught to Correct Imperfect Elimination.

"For eight or nine years I have used Black-Draught in my home, and it has come to be our family standby for constipation," says Mrs. C. L. Hays of Winfield, Texas.

"Several years ago," explains Mrs. Hays, "I was suffering from a bad pain across my back. I became nervous and my complexion was better. I felt sluggish and lifeless."

"I realized that I was becoming poisoned from improper elimination. I was constipated and this was causing a condition which was making me ill."

"I lost my appetite and did not relish anything to eat. I had always found Black-Draught to be a useful purgative, so I thought I would take a course of this medicine to thoroughly cleanse my system. I took a small dose every night for several weeks and found that it was just what I needed. I soon began to feel better. The sluggish, dull feeling left, and I felt fine."

"I know Black-Draught can be relied upon to give good results. I give it to my little boy, as it is about the only medicine I can get him to take without an argument. His health is good, and about all he needs is something to keep his bowels open when he has a bad cold or an upset stomach."

URGES MUNICIPAL GAS WORKS IN RATE FIGHT

Central Trades Union Passes Resolution as Laclede Stock Goes Higher.

The action of the Laclede Gas and Light Co. in seeking to raise the rates of $0 per cent of small users of gas in St. Louis caused the Central Trades and Labor Union yesterday to begin an investigation to learn whether a municipal gas plant could be established.

Laclede's application for higher rates, and the probability that the city cannot resist them successfully, has sent Laclede common stock soaring upon the market. It stood at approximately $175 two weeks ago, rose to $233 last week and opened today upon the New York Stock Exchange at $234.50.

The Central Trades and Labor Union passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Laclede Gas Light Company of the City of St. Louis has made application to the Public Service Commission to increase the present rate of gas to its consumers; and whereas, such increase in rates will fall heaviest on the small consumer thereby placing an additional burden upon the citizens of this city who can least afford such increase;

"Therefore, be it resolved, by the Central Trades and Labor Union that we direct our Legislative Committee to consult such legal advice as they may deem necessary for the purpose of drafting an ordinance whereby the City of St. Louis shall own and operate a gas plant in order that same may be conducted and operated by the city as its own works and be it further resolved, this proposed ordinance be submitted to the voters of St. Louis through the initiative and referendum."

FRISCO TRAINS BACKED 18 MILES TO UNION STATION

Freight Wreck at Valley Park Blocks Line Several Hours; Brakeman Injured.

Several Frisco Railway accommodation trains had to back from Valley Park to Union Station, a distance of 18 miles, this morning, because a freight train derailed last night prevented use of the Valley Park "Y." Trainmen stood on the rear platform sounding air whistles.

A falling brake beam on the seventh car of a westbound freight train caused the derailment of this and six cars behind it, at 9:25 o'clock last night. The wreckage broke the spout of a water tank beside the track and a large quantity of water ran out. C. W. Lay, a brakeman, of St. Louis, who was caught by debris and bruised, was deluged by the water and rescuers piled gravel under his head to avoid danger of drowning until he was extricated.

The wreck made it necessary to detour an eastbound passenger train from Texas and a westbound passenger for Oklahoma last night, over the Missouri Pacific between Valley Park and Pacific. One track of the main line was cleared this morning, permitting through trains to proceed.

WAITERS COMPLAIN OF TIPS TO BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

Say "Lump Sum" Given at Banquets Are Not Distributed to Service Staff.

One reason why tipping guests at banquets do not get the service they expect is revealed in complaints by waiters to the Better Business Bureau.

The complainants have served recently as extra waiters at a number of banquets given by companies for their salesmen and other employees. They received no tips. They have since learned, they say, that the head waiter received a lump sum to be distributed among the waiters, told the waiters they could "go home now and pocketed the money for himself."

Waiters, so mistreated, cannot be expected to provide extra butter and ice for diners, say the complainants.

TWIN SISTERS SWIM 5 MILES

Claim Time of One Hour, 15 Minutes, in the Hudson.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Bernice and Phyllis Sittenfield, 18-year-old twins of New York, claimed a time of 1 hour, 15 minutes, 3 seconds, for a 5-mile swim in the Hudson River yesterday. Taking off from the destroyer Whitney, they swam up river with the wind and the incoming tide, finishing abreast. The temperature of the water was 49 degrees.

The twins' time was given as exactly the same as that in which Phyllis Gant of London swam the slightly longer distance of 5 miles, 60 yards in the Thames in 1918.

URGES BAND CONCERT FUNDS

Central Trades Votes to Support Measure Seeking $3000 More.

A more comprehensive program of public band concerts was advocated yesterday by the Central Trades and Labor Union at a meeting at which delegates recalled that while $25,000 was spent annually on such activities 20 years ago, only $5000 is available for this summer.

The council voted to support a measure now in the Board of Aldermen by which $2000 would be added to the concert appropriation for 1927. The delegates also objected to the assignment of most of the concerts to Forest Park.

BOY, 15, IMPLICATES MOTHER IN MURDER OF HIS FATHER

Larue, Ark., Woman Arrested When She Appears at Jail to Visit Son.
BENTONVILLE, Ark., May 9.—Lawrence Baker, 15-year-old boy, charged with the murder of his father, Joe Baker, near Larue, April 28, yesterday made an additional statement, implicating his mother. When Mrs. Baker came to visit her son in the Benton County jail she was arrested and placed in jail on a murder charge. According to Sheriff Joe G. Galley, the boy, who has told several stories of the crime, says that his mother was afraid of her husband and helped him plan the murder, talking the matter over with him just two hours before the murder took place. The woman has not been questioned.

Some Overweight in Children an Advantage—Too Much, a Handicap

Excessive Fat Taxes All Organs of the Body, Says College Physician.

Control Your Weight!

THIS is the thirteenth of a series of articles on "Control Your Weight," written by members of the Adult Weight Conference, called by officers of the American Medical Association. The papers are prepared with the editorial cooperation of the American Medical Association. Next Monday Dr. Charles L. Dana, chairman of the Public Health Committee, New York Academy of Medicine, will discuss "Weight and Nervous Diseases."

By DR. THOMAS D. WOOD, College Physician, Teachers' College, Columbia University.

"HELLO, Fatty!" is a greeting to a fellow mortal more frequently (and a little more) offered by children than adults.

The fat child is proverbially good natured, ready to laugh, and easy to get along with. In popular understanding, the young one who gains in weight, even to a point considerably above normal for his age and height, is also supposed to be thriving in health. But is overweight really an advantage to a child? This inquiry is of special importance now because recent interpretations of life insurance statistics indicate that after the age of 20 overweight is a distinct liability to life as well as to health. The answer, in the case of children, seems to be that, although a moderate degree of overweight, as from the health standpoint, is a good thing, rather than a growing child, excessive fat is undesirable, for reasons I shall explain later.

One of the difficulties, of course, lies in deciding what is excessive fat. The weight-height tables so generally in use for children at the present time are misinterpreted by a great many people, including health workers. They overlook the fact that the health-weight standard is a zone, rather than an actual point or number of pounds. It is not supposed, for example, that all the boys of the same age and height should weigh exactly the same number of pounds to be in the best of health. The weight of 8 years old and 50 inches tall might weigh anywhere from 24 pounds to 70 and be in perfect health so far as his weight is concerned. Neither parents nor children, therefore, should be disturbed at all about excessive weight in boys or girls until this excess goes beyond 15 to 20 per cent above the average for their age and height.

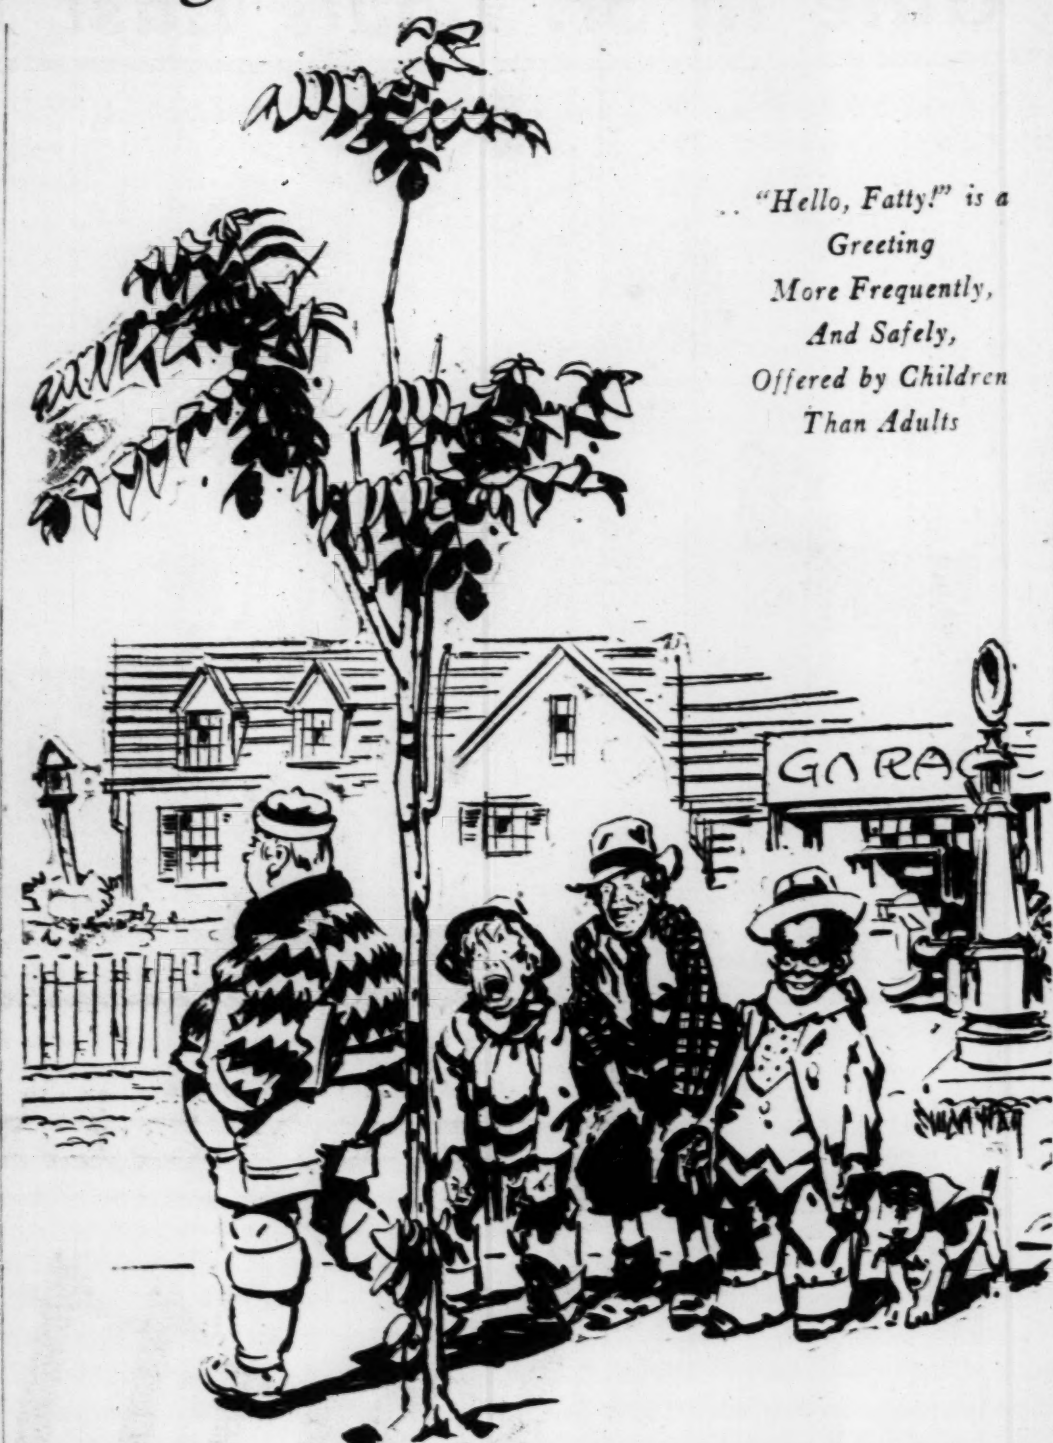

One reason for this wide variation is the difference in racial types. Children, for instance, from some of the southern and eastern European nations are relatively shorter, stockier and broader in physique and later of bone, at the same age, than those of other national stocks; consequently they are often relatively heavier, without having any more fat than others. Physiologically, fatty tissue is rather interesting. It is, in general, evidence of good digestion. It provides storage for heat and energy. Fat also is actually, as well as in popular understanding, a useful padding for the body. A moderate amount of fat, at least, is considered by some eminent medical authorities a very useful protection for the nerves—which may explain the proverbial good nature of "fatty."

Excess of fat, on the other hand, in the child as well as in the grown person, while it protects one somewhat against cold and forms a comfortable padding, is, beyond that, not a very useful tissue to carry around. Fat cells require a good deal of extra food and nutrition, and if they involve many pounds of weight, a good deal more blood is needed to maintain the life and health of the fatty tissues. It requires considerable additional work from the lungs to provide oxygen for the fat cells, and food and work on the part of the digestive organs to nourish them.

Indeed, the excessive fat furnishes an extra weight and responsibility for virtually all of the vital organs. Fat, also, is a definite handicap to children as well as to adults in certain infectious diseases, such as pneumonia. In diseases of the exhausting type, with acute inflammation due to bacterial infection, the excess of fat may be quite an obstacle to recovery. The handicap of excessive fat is, however, relatively greater for the adult than for the child.

On the other hand, some statistical studies which have been made of overweight children show that these overweight boys and girls do not, on the whole, vary much from their fellows in mental and muscular ability and accomplishments. In fact, a study of a considerable number of overweight and moderately fat children shows that they are superior to underweight youngsters. It has been shown even that some children in the overweight group surpass other children in speed and in activity. Overweight children, on the average, come to maturity earlier than children of other weights and types.

On the other hand, the average

"Hello, Fatty!" is a Greeting More Frequently, And Safely, Offered by Children Than Adults

weight children seem to fatigue more easily than the others; this is perhaps partly due to the excess baggage which they are forced to carry around with them. Such children also do not have as good posture as the other type. A number of physicians have noted that overweight boys and girls who accumulate fatty tissue about the shoulders and around the hips, are not apt to be in as good health, and have not as great vitality and resistance as children of the same age and weight who have their excess of fat more evenly distributed over the body. Finally, it is true that overweight boys and girls have, in a significant proportion of instances, a greater tendency to fear, to worry, or to other disturbed emotional states, in spite of their apparent placidity. How far these attitudes and emotions are due to greater self-consciousness to a feeling of inferiority on account of their size, is not fully understood.

There are many more overweight children who are conscious of their excessive weight, and are desirous of reducing or willing to diet, than there are underweight youngsters who are conscious of their deficiency and want to "eat and grow fat." These attitudes of the young ones are particularly important now, when so many girls are dieting for the sake of being thin, and are often injuring their health thereby. A recent study made in one junior high school in the West showed that, out of 1400 pupils, 130 were going without breakfast because they were afraid that otherwise they would put on flesh and become unfashionably stout. A considerable number of these girls were under twelve years of age.

Of course a large majority of children are overweight because they eat too much; therefore, under wise supervision and proper precautions, they can reduce. In a small but important minority, however, obesity is due to a disturbance of the ductless glands, particularly of the thyroid gland, the pituitary at the base of the brain, and the adrenal. Some of the other glands, in various combinations, are also partly responsible for excess fat and weight.

Competent physicians have been able to show a gratifying improvement in a good many of these children through the careful use of glandular medicines. Some young ones of this class, however, after a part of the desired reduction is accomplished, must be content to remain, for their best health and safety, distinctly larger and heavier than the average of their companions.

Remember that if any attempt is made to restrict the diet of growing children because of overweight or fat, it is most important that the elements in the diet which are necessary for health and growth should be guarded and maintained. In other words, a disturbance of the balanced diet for growing children is considerably more serious than it is for adults, though it is serious enough for them. Any attempt to reduce the weight of a child by diet should be carried on under the careful direction of a physician. In a majority of cases, children who are markedly overweight can safely reduce. The restricted diet which will help without hurting them should show a marked reduction in sugar and sweets (especially candy and sweet desserts which they love so much); a moderate reduction in the starchy vegetables, such as potatoes, rice and white bread, and also in fats, such as rich dressings and sauces; a reasonable amount of protein-bearing foods, such as meat, fish and chicken, but little if any reduction in the leafy vegetables and fresh fruits. Generous portions of the latter should be eaten for the sake of the vitamins which they contain and which are so vitally essential for the satisfactory growth and health of children. In particular, the full needed quota of milk and milk products should be maintained, even in the diet of the child who is reducing. At least a pint of milk should be taken daily, either as a beverage or in prepared food.

In all of this discussion it should be remembered that while the weight of children is in itself a very practical and important index of their health, it is not the only one and should not be considered. Extensive study of children of a wide range of types has shown that a large majority of boys and girls who are 7 to 10 per cent or more under the standard weight for height and age are undernourished, and are not so healthy as children who come nearer the average weight. But it is equally well known that many of the youngsters who are up to or even above the average weight for their height and age are undernourished and are not in the best of health. Each child needs to be considered as a problem by himself.

COFFEE AS A MEDICINE

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

THE widespread, almost universal use in America of coffee in the forms of either coffee, tea, or "soft drinks" makes it important that you should know something of the uses of coffee in medical practice.

Physicians recognize that coffee stimulates the activity of the nervous system and, when disease has rendered these centers abnormal, it increases their excitability. It is a valuable stimulant in some brain conditions with mental depression.

Its chief value is in the condition of shock, where the nerve centers are so acutely depressed as to endanger the efficiency of the heart.

In opium poisoning, where the nerve centers are so depressed that the vital processes can no longer continue, coffee often will stimulate them until the poison has been eliminated.

Like most stimulants, coffee has a selective effect on particular tissues, although it has some effect on all.

In large doses, in certain sensitive people, it may irritate the lining membrane of the stomach and produce a sensation of heat and burning, possibly because it stimulates the secretion of hydrochloric acid, which is the normal acid of the stomach.

It has a reputation for causing biliousness, which it probably causes, because it overworks the liver and exhausts its capacity for getting rid of poisons.

Its effects on the glands of internal secretion are still obscure, but there has been observed in experiments to increase the production of carbonic acid, which means increased combustion. Contrary to popular belief, coffee is not a true heart stimulant.

Its effect on the kidneys is stimulating. As might be expected of a substance which is closely allied to the waste products which it is the business of the kidney to remove, it increases the secretion of urine.

However, the most important property of coffee is its strongly stimulating effect on the nerve centers, and its special field of action is the great collection of nerve centers in the brain and base centers controlling the nerves which regulate many of the bodily functions, such as circulation, secretion and tissue change.

The effect of coffee on the brain in moderate doses and in average people is to produce a feeling of well-being.

It increases mental powers. Under the influence of coffee people hear and see better.

Their thinking process is speeded up, because of the temporary keenness of the nerves which control the association of ideas.

The powers of concentration are

Increased and fatigue is for the time held at bay.

Although coffee in excess will stimulate quantity, the quality of the brain work is likely to suffer from it, for it is apt to reduce the critical faculties. Taken in excess it may produce bad dreams, insomnia, depression, dizziness, ringing in the ears, blurring of the sight, and even delirium.

Coffee, therefore, is a normal, physiological stimulant in normal physiological quantities.

Its use is one of the most beneficial means of preventing and overcoming fatigue and of promoting high efficiency.

Its abuse, like the abuse of any other stimulant, is highly detrimental.

Keeping a Schoolgirl Complexion

By VILMA BANKY

Never risk on skin any but true complexion soap

THE important point to the modern beauty rule of keeping the skin clean and pores open, with soap and water cleansing, is to use the right kind of soap. That means a true complexion soap. A soap made primarily for facial use. Soaps good for many purposes, other than for beauty, are often too harsh for the skin. Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap, because their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Wash the face gently with

Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion. Do that regularly, and particularly before bed. Never let powder, rouge or make-up remain on your skin over night. Note how much better your skin is in even one week. Get Palmolive today. Costs but 10c a cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Plant Co., Chicago, U. S. Little Miss Malaprop

By Fay Stevenson

THE worst handicap with which Miss Malaprop had to cope was self-consciousness. At other people's homes she usually managed to become so interested in new surroundings and meeting new people that she had less trouble than when she entertained at her own home.

When it came her turn to discharge the duties of social duties by giving a bridge party she resolved that she would overcome the nerve-racking self-consciousness, but during the luncheon when conversation lagged and she saw her hostess must stimulate it by some new subject she found herself in her old rut.

"I went shopping this morning," she began, and as all eyes were upon her she felt the color mounting to her cheeks. She was self-conscious again! Her very words burned with embarrassment. She stuttered, forgot what she was going to say about her shopping trip and at last an intimate friend came to her aid.

"No wonder you are self-conscious!" said her friend when they were alone. "No wonder you blushed and stammered and forgot what you were going to say. You always talk about yourself—forget your own ego. Talk about other things—get others to talking and you'll be able to cure yourself. There are many delightful things beyond the little boundaries of your own self."

The Diary Father

Sunday night. THE baby is only 23 weeks old today, but he is getting to be just like the big boys. He eats his food, he has a lot of money and he worries his mother, and the latest is that he does not live entirely on milk any more on account of Joan giving him breakfast food for dinner.

He is likely to be up at all hours, too, and this morning he ruined a beautiful sleep for me by bolting for service at 6 o'clock, and Joan got up and gave him his bottle, and then she climbed back in bed, and we got up at 7 o'clock on account of her not being able to go to sleep again.

When your wife cannot go back to sleep, you cannot go back to sleep, either, on account of her not letting you.

Well, we had breakfast and Joan started to give the baby his bath, and she told me to get the dishes, and I do not like dishes, and I was washing the darn things, and I was thinking, what a swell life bachelors lead, and I said, "Joan, I'll blow you to dinner at the restaurant around the corner if you get the janitor's daughter to stay with the baby," and Joan said, "I'll accept that in a hurry, before you think of the expense. Why don't you want to eat at home as usual?" I said, "Because Sunday dinner at home means that I am a buxer private doing kitchen police and you are a Major-General with the heart of a second Lieutenant. I want day of rest to be something besides a lot of your dishes and pans for me to wash."

Joan said, "All right, precious. We'll eat out, and mama won't make her hero wash a single pan the rest of the day." I said, "Is that a promise?" I said, "It's a promise. You sit down and

Now it had come to be lunch time and even the semblance of day suddenly vanished. The fan of making a camp fire and cooking and it was too exciting, too jolly for words.

After lunch the class lay or squatted or perched, each after his kind, about the camping place for the rest hour. A happy idea came to Lily. "Miss Helen, can you tell fortunes?"

"Of course."

"True ones?"

"No other kind. All I ask is that you come to me in secret, show me your palm and promise to believe what I tell you."

"Me first. Over here by the pine tree. No one must listen." Lily held out her plump white hand to the teacher, who gravely examined it and then told her her fortune.

"Oh, you just ought to hear her. She's wonderful. She told me all about myself. Really. Things I didn't know I knew about myself."

She told me she even knew something Belle and I did last week. And nobody told her. I asked her if anybody told her and she said she didn't need anyone to tell her. O, she's simply wonderful."

Trade was brisk after that, and all the boys and girls had their little conference with the teacher, sometimes laughing, sometimes interested. All but Ralph, moody, lary, overgrown. Ralph, who lay where he was, his hat over his eyes,

A Chinese Short Cut.

It is told in the Orient that a dignified English lady of large social and financial rating came out to Shanghai to join her husband, who was in the diplomatic service of his country. Having been suitably welcomed by the more prominent white residents in her new home, the distinguished arrival presently proceeded to organize a domestic establishment.

She was green at housekeeping according to Anglo-Chinese standards but nevertheless being a natural born executive she made fair headway at enlisting a staff of native servants until it came to a choice of a butler.

A candidate presented himself for her approval—a dapper middle-aged Chinaman who spoke a fair or at least an understandable Pidgin English. His appearance was in his favor and his credentials from former employers spoke highly of his capabilities and merits.

"I think perhaps you'll do for my service," said the lady when the interview between them was nearing its close. "What is your name?"

"My name Quong Lei Fah Tsang," said the applicant in his singsongy accents.

"Oh, that's entirely too long to remember," stated the lady. "I shall call you John."

"A light," he beamed. "What your name?"

"My name," she answered. "My name is Mrs. Edmondson Burleigh-Stanhope."

"Him too dam' long, too," gurgled the new butler. "Me call you Cholly."

His Fortune

By Angelo Patri

MISS HELEN had taken the class out for a field day. Armed with hammers and notebooks, they had followed the river for miles and listened with grave attention to the teacher's story about this rock and that bed of sand and that huddle of gravel. Now it had come to be lunch time and even the semblance of duty study vanished. The fun of making a camp fire and cooking over it was too exciting, too jolly for words.

After lunch the class lay or squatted or perched, each after his kind, about the camping place for the rest of the hour. A happy idea came to Lily. "Miss Helen, can you tell fortunes?"

"Of course," "True ones?" "I tell no other kind. All I ask is you come to me in secret, show me your palm and promise to believe what I tell you."

"Me first. Over here by the pine tree. No one must listen." Lily laid out her plump white hand to the teacher, who gravely scanned it and then told her her fortune. "Oh, you just ought to hear her. She's wonderful. She told me all about myself. Really. Things I didn't know I knew about myself she told me. She even knew something about me. I did last week. And nobody told her. I asked her if anybody told her and she said No, she didn't need anyone to tell her. O, she's simply wonderful."

Trade was brisk after that and all the boys and girls had their little conference with the teacher, sometimes laughing, sometimes grave enough, always pleasantly interested. All but Ralph, moody, lonesome, overgrown Ralph, who lay there he was, his hat over his eyes, apparently asleep. "My spirit tells me that there is yet one to come," called Miss Helen. "The fortunes are not complete until this one comes."

"Hurry up, Ralph. It's you," said our Lily. "Hurry up or the charm'll be lost. Go on. What's the matter with you? Can't you ever do anything other people do? It's a wonder you wouldn't wake up once a day anyway." She talked and pushed and coaxed Ralph over to the pine tree.

Miss Helen took his tense hand in her cool, firm one, studied it for an instant and said, "You have a wonderful life line. I see a big struggle there and then a great success. I see many little nagging troubles. You are bothered about a lot of little things. But you have a very good friend who will be able to explain them all for you and they will disappear. A dark man. It might be Dr. Gooden."

"And I see a great wish here. You want to do a big piece of work. But you are standing by your own way there. This work will need preparation and great effort, but you are going to succeed. I see it clearly. For a few years you will work hard and fight off discouragements. Then something very good happens, something that opens the way to your great wish. And there you are. A wonderful life line. Full of fine things. Go right out to make the best of it. Few people have such a start as you have in that hand."

Ralph gave Miss Helen a long, steady look. Then he smiled at her and said, "Maybe I will." And, of course, he did. There is more than one way to move an adolescent lad toward his goal. Another article by Mr. Patri will appear tomorrow.

Highest Salaried Woman, Who Gets $100,000
A Year, Tells Story of Her Rise

MRS. BLANCHE R. GREEN.

Corset Factory Had to Be Enlarged Several Times After Mrs. Blanche Green Went on the Road as Saleswoman.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

THE highest salaried woman in the commercial world, whose income is reputed to be $100,000 a year and who does not deny the soft impeachment, has just visited St. Louis in the interest of establishing a new point of distribution for her firm's product.

She is Mrs. Blanche R. Green, whose unique distinction was first asserted publicly on Feb. 22 at a banquet in her honor commemorating the fifteenth anniversary of the beginning of her business career. She is sales manager and vice president of Berger Brothers Co., New Haven, Conn.

Product is the made-to-measure Spencer corset. "Women don't wear corsets any more," you object? Oh, yes they do, as a sales force to $500 making their living selling a high-priced garment attests. Women merely want to look as if they were not corseted, which is one of the things custom-made stays are supposed to accomplish. That probably is one talking point in the sale of corsets and there are others about health and hygiene and the necessity of proper support and stricture in the production of desired proportions and lines.

Began 15 Years Ago.

Fifteen years ago Mrs. Green started without anything, without knowledge of salesmanship, without the personality thought to be indispensable to salesmanship and with handicaps, though as in many other instances, these proved a spur to her endeavors.

She was a Southern girl, reared in Norfolk, Va. She married young, went to live in White Plains, N. Y., where a daughter was born and where the family continued to live in comfortable though modest circumstances until the husband was laid low by an accident which rendered him a helpless invalid to this day.

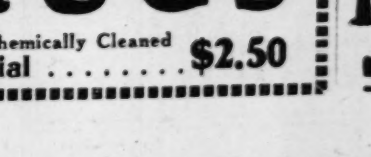

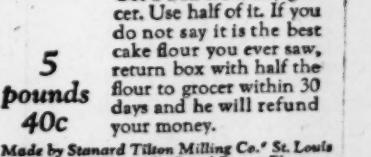

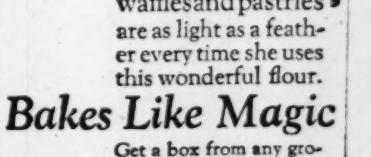

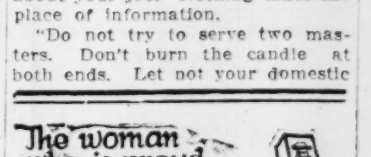

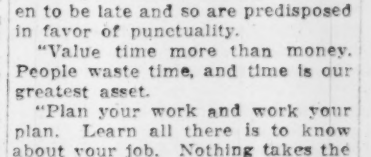

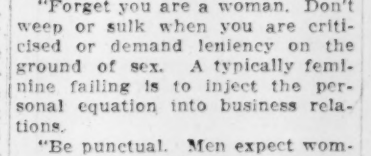

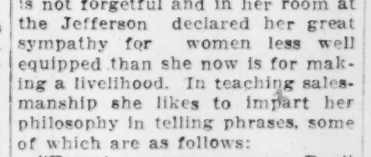

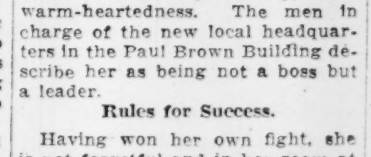

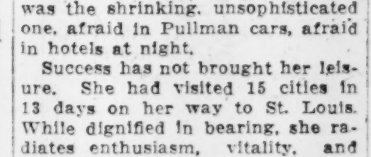

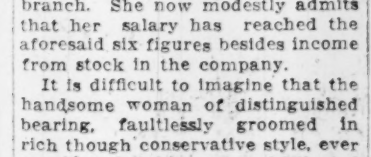

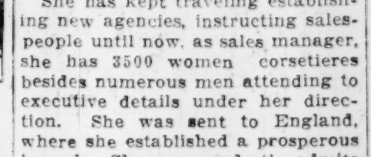

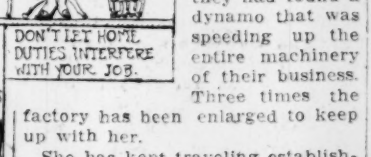

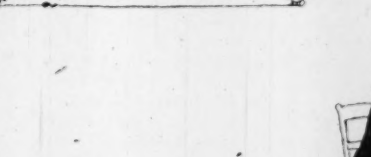

For three years the prospect of becoming breadwinner for the family was stayed off by the young wife. They moved to a farm hoping to benefit the invalid, but he grew worse, in greater need of expert attention the farm could not provide for until at last all resources were exhausted.

Timidly, much against her native inclination, with but little encouragement from the people employing her, Mrs. Green set out as a corset saleswoman from house to house in a small town—Chatham, N. Y., being the location she chose because there lived a doctor to whom she wanted to bring her husband.

The First Sale.

Vividly she tells the story of her first sale. "I arrived on Washington's Birthday when no business could be transacted. I found a boarding house and sat in my room waiting for the day to pass. And how it rained! The clouds hung so low that the scene from my window was like one of those dark menacing scenes in a nightmare."

"I thought of Belden and Ruth back there in the Berkshires. And the rain beat on the roof and the night came down."

Pointers on Auction Bridge

By MILTON C. WORK

THE pointer for today is:

The bidding generally is more important than the play; every bridge player should be familiar with bidding conventions.

As was announced last Saturday, this is to be "bidding week" and the program will be that each day from now until Friday, I will give four hands and ask my readers what bid should be made with each. The conditions will be varied. One day the hands will be those of a dealer; another, of a player in some other position, etc.

When the hands are those of any player except dealer, the declarations of the preceding players will be given. Each day there will be an answer slip so that the reader can note what he thinks is the correct bid with each one. Make your own entries in pencil and keep your answer slip until the next day; then compare your bids with mine and, if they do not agree, read carefully the reasons that I give in support of my bids.

Again I suggest that you get as many as you can of your bridge friends and clubmates to fill up an answer slip each day, and that you keep all your respective records for the week. There will be a total of 20 bidding hands this week and the contest which you can thus conduct for yourselves should be a most interesting one. Today's hands are all supposed to be held by a dealer, the score being love-all, first game and the question in each one of the four cases is: What should the dealer declare? The four hands are:

NO. 1. Spades—6, 2. Hearts—A, Q, 10, 8. Diamonds—7, 5. Clubs—A, K, Q, 9, 8. NO. 2. Spades—A, Q, 10, 5. Hearts—A, K, 2, 5. Diamonds—4, 3, 2. Clubs—5, 2.

They are finding these in many colored ribbons. On many of the new spring suits, bands of ribbon are stitched across one lapel almost like the ribbons of military decorations. Sometimes they utilize college or club colors but they may be white or plain gray on a black or dark blue suit.

Inns.

THERE are so many loves along life's way, would we but count the love that childhood knew, the mother-love as shining as the day, surpassing all loves else, for faithful love of friends, that all men hold a sweet and sacred thing; the love of youth to youth that makes amends for any grief or care the days may bring. These loves are inns along the road of life where men may find always a refuge sure; where men may come, released from any strife; where men may rest, from any fears secure. These loves are inns along life's highway spaces, where weary travelers find a respite good; these loves are inns that give the soul foretaste of Love eternal it shall sometime know.

The Delightful Rosina Vokes

By Anne Chaplain

WHEN British play-producers wanted a child for a particular part, they went to a certain name. That name was Rosina Vokes. She was very beautiful and had the right out of her own body. The Vokes family was unique and distinguished. The father was a theatrical costumer and all his children were on the stage. There were Jessie, Victoria and Rosina, all of them talented and clever.

The Vokes family became world-famous, but Rosina was the brightest and best of them. She made her theatrical debut at the age of five when she was carried on the stage by the eminent English actor, Mr. Crawley. At first she appeared in Scotland with the Vokes family, but afterward, as the "Queen Family," they appeared in London for the first time, with Drury Lane Theatre. Their first appearance in America was at the United Square Theatre, in "The Belles of the Kitchen," which they played successfully for five seasons. They were immensely popular in their own country.

The first break in the family came when Rosina married Cecil, after which she retired from the stage. Jessie died, but Fred Victoria continued to work. After her marriage, Rosina founded a company and came to America. Among the plays in which she delighted her audiences, were "The Delightful Rosina Vokes."

The Greatest Story in the World—By Kor

The Bible in Pictures

Joseph, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren the sons of Bilhah, and of Zilpah, his father's wives; and Joseph brought unto his father their evil report. Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was the son of his old age; and he made him a coat of many colors. And when his brethren saw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, they hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him. And Joseph dreamed a dream, and he

PUMP OF LACLEDE GAS STOCK GIVES CHICAGO MAN $4,000,000 PROFIT

Charles A. Munroe, Who Bought St. Louis Company, Paid $105 a Share for Stock Now $233.

DEAL COMPLETED WITHIN THREE YEARS
Secured Control on Basis of $40,000,000 Value for All Securities, Then Got $52,000,000 Valuation for Rate-Making.

"It would be difficult to conceive any plan more conducive to the management of unrestrained speculation than such a method of valuation," (reproduction new, which is that utilities should be placed for rate-making upon the basis of reproducing them at present prices, regardless of actual investment).

"In all probability it would provide a feast superior to anything which the bulls and bears have enjoyed since the creation of stock exchanges."

—From the Interstate Commerce Commission decision in St. Louis & O'Fallon railroad case, Feb. 15, 1927.

By WILLIAM F. ALLEN
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

The rocket-like rise of Laclede Gas on the New York Stock Exchange, which the newspapers have reported from day to day, and which has created a sensation in financial circles, provides such food for the Interstate Commerce Commission prophesied, for Charles Munroe of Chicago, and a lesser read for his four associates in a deal in which they bought the company just three years ago. Briefly, Munroe secured a majority of Laclede Gas common stock at a price which would make the total market value of all the company's outstanding securities only $40,000,000, and shortly succeeded in inducing the Missouri Public Service Commission to allow the property a valuation of $52,000,000 for rate-making purposes. The measure of his financial achievement is found in the fact that Laclede common stock, for which he paid $105 a share, last week sold at $233 a share. The deal probably the most spectacular as well as the most profitable speculation in this city's annals. Munroe and his associates have recovered all of the money they originally invested or its equivalent in the securities, and today would close out with a profit of about $4,000,000. Munroe's share would exceed $4,000,000.

400 St. Louisans in on Rise.
Sixty 400 St. Louisans, who a year ago saw their common stock sink to $40 a share, have ridden the elevator upward with Munroe, while half as many other Louisians, who let go of their stock when the price fell, made Munroe's scheme possible.

The connected story of how the Chicago man plucked the juiciest public utility plum that St. Louis has been put together from the records of the Missouri Public Service Commission, reports Poor's and Moody's Manuals, from information obtained from persons either parties to or familiar with the transaction. It is substantially as follows:

In 1924, Munroe was an associate of Samuel Insull of Chicago, who controls public utilities—gas and electric—with an aggregate capitalization of $1,500,000,000. He had risen in Insull's confidence through 14 years by his assistance in buying properties for Insull organization.

Early in that year, while Munroe was president of the Peoples Gas and Coke Co. of Chicago, an Insull property, it came to his ears that W. A. Harrison & Co., New York bankers, would contract to sell the common stock of the Laclede Gas Co. of St. Louis. But the deal must be put up within 30 days.

Bought at $105 a Share.
The price demanded was $105, for $2,400 shares, or approximately $105 a share for the entire issue. It was a two-ply problem for Munroe. First—how good a buy was it? Second—where could $2,400,000 of hard cash be commanded in 20 days?

He brought to the problem the enormous concentration of which
